Season's First Big Storm Pounds Penna.; 5 Inches Hit Monroe Co.

MONROE County was covered with a white blanket of snow ranging from three to five inches at various check points in the county yesterday. It was the first big snow storm of the season.

Mount Pocono State Police reported at 10 p.m. a total of four inches of snow had fallen in that area and more was expected. They also said that the roads in the area were open and clear and most traffic was moving steadily but at reduced speeds.

From the western end of Monroe County a reported three inches had fallen up to 10 o'clock last night. Traffic conditions there were a little below normal. All cars traveled at erduced speeds.

Monroe County Highway Superintendent Frank Smith reported he had 34 trucks, seven loaders, one shovel and 64 men on the roads of the county cindering and plowing. He added the crews would continue to work until all highways in the county were open and cindered.

Roads Open

He reported at 10 p.m. all roads were open but if it began to get windy the crews might be confronted with small snow drifts.

In the Milford area State Police reported about two inches of snow had fallen and that it was continuing to snow.

In the Twin-Boroughs police reported that all streets were open and the streets not heavily traveled were slippery. Snow plows and cinder crews were on duty most of the night.

Garages in the area were busy putting chains on cars and hotels were crowded with people enroute who chose to get off the highways rather than take chances driving on the snow-covered roads.

The season's first big snow storm, spawned by a Texas low pressure system, pounded Pennsylvania with a Sunday punch that snarled traffic and disrupted bus and airlines schedules.

At least three deaths were attributed to the storm. A woman died in a Pennsylvania Turnpike accident and two men died of apparent heart attacks while shoveling snow in Pittsburgh.

Four To Eight Inches

There were scores of other skidding mishaps as the state felt the first real blow of winter.

The U.S. Weather Bureau at Harrisburg said things would get worse before they got better.

A bureau spokesman predicted snow depths across the state would average from four to eight inches with measurements of 10 to 12 inches a possibility in some sections.

To complicate matters, predictions were that temperatures would drop to from five to 12 degrees above zero in northern tier counties before Monday morning and average below 20 or in the low 20s elsewhere.

Gusty surface winds during the next 24 hours were expected to whip the snow into high drifts, complicating the work of snow removal crews that swung into action around the state.

The snow was expected to continue through Monday morning in most sections, then turn to flurries in the afternoon. Cold weather was forecast through Wednesday.

The storm caught Pennsylvanians by complete surprise. It started snowing Sunday morning and continued throughout the day and night in most sections.

The Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission reduced speed limits from 65 to 35 miles per hour in sections where the going was particularly rough.

Meantime, turnpike crews worked feverishly using every piece of available equipment to keep ahead of the storm. A ban on house and utility trailers originally was enforced over the entire 410-mile length of the roadway but later it was restricted to the most dangerous sections.

Snarls Traffic

The snow snarled traffic in many communities during the hours persons were out and on the way to Sunday church services.

And it turned Pittsburgh's Forbes Field into a white-crested setting in which the Philadelphia Eagles, National Football League eastern champions, had a nine-game win streak snapped by Pittsburgh, 27-21.

Communities were transformed into a picture card setting as the fresh snow blended with street decorations for the Christmas shopping season.

Perhaps the only persons really happy about the early winter pounding were youngsters who dusted off sleds and headed for their favorite hills.

State police identified the victim of the turnpike crash as Mrs. Agnes Goyena, 41, Carteret, N.J. Her car smashed against a bridge rail near the turnpike's Bedford interchange.

Philadelphia International Airport remained open, although some flights were sent to New York to land.

Bus and trolley service ran behind schedule, but encountered no major difficulties. The difficulties were expected Monday morning during the rush hour. The railroads were in the same position; not much trouble now, but preparing for some in the morning.

Many Tie-Ups

Bus service to and from Philadelphia was from 30 minutes to two hours late. Trailways Bus Co. reported that buses were up to two hours late from Pittsburgh, Harrisburg, Scranton and Wilkes-Barre. Buses were 30 minutes late arriving from New York and two hours from Washington.

More than four inches of snow blanketed parts of the Pittsburgh area. Sixteen skidding accidents were reported within five hours by Pittsburgh police. Two men died of apparent heart attacks while shoveling snow.

No Affect

A spokesman at the Greater Pittsburgh Airport said the snow storm had no noticeable affect on airlines operations.

In the southwestern corner of Somerset County, six to seven inches of snow had fallen by 7 p.m. and more was expected. High winds caused quite a bit of drifting.

In northeastern Pennsylvania, the snow did not begin until late afternoon. There was little difficulty keeping most roads open into the night. Operations at Avoca Airport between Wilkes-Barre and Scranton were normal.

The snow began in Scranton at 4:30 p. m., and stopped for a while a few hours later. An Eastern Professional Basketball League game between Wilkes-Barre and Scranton, in Scranton, was postponed.

People in Towanda reported that the snow did not begin until 6 p. m. Plows were at work on the roads soon after.

65 Are Dead, 300 Hurt

French Troops Break Up Wild Algerian Riot

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — French paratroopers fired on thousands of rioting Moslems Sunday in what officials called the worst bloodbath in Algiers' history. The violent outbursts left at least 65 persons dead and more than 300 wounded.

An uneasy quiet gripped this curfew - bound French territorial capital Sunday night as heavily armed troops patrolled deserted streets.

The death toll included 15 Moslems and six Europeans felled by army bullets in Government Plaza.

The other victims, apparently all Moslems, were slain in isolated clashes on this third straight day of demonstrations touched off by President Charles De Gaulle's visit to win support for his program of Algerian self-determination.

The death count in Algiers was the highest of any single day since the Algerian nationalist revolt erupted more than six years ago.

Gen. Jean Crepin, French army commander in Algeria, blamed the outbreak on what he called a minority of Moslem rebel leaders and "a handful of European agitators."

Death Toll

Jean Morin, France's delegate-general for the territory, announced the death toll in a special radio broadcast Sunday night. He appealed to Moslems and European settlers to stop fighting each other and "spare Algeria from chaos and anarchy."

In efforts to restore order to the strife - torn city, authorities stopped publication of three Algiers morning newspapers. Morin also signed a decree officially establishing censorship on all outgoing news dispatches.

The stern action by the paratroopers in firing on the Moslem mobs made them immediate heroes among right-wing European settlers. Women embraced them and men eagerly handed them bottles of wine.

Crepin later issued a warning that his troops "will maintain public order without exception."

With open defiance, the Moslems took to the streets early Sunday to shout their support for the nationalist rebellion.

The Moslem outbreak far surpassed in violence and bloodshed the two proceeding days, when the Europeans of the divided capital fought riot police in bloody demonstrations.

"This is a general uprising," cried a spokesman for the right-wing front for French Algeria.

It was De Gaulle's policy of self-determination for Algeria which enraged the Europeans to riot and, at the same time, gave the Moslems confidence to flaunt their support for rebellion.

Terrifying Day

The Moslems touched off a day of violence that was terrifying even by the explosive standards of past bloodshed in the embattled city. They sacked stores, homes and buildings, set fire to automobiles, houses, shops and apartment buildings, pulled Europeans from cars and beat them—cutting the throats of two.

In mixed districts like the Babel-Oued and Belcourt parts of dled in stark terror behind locked town, many French families hud-doors while the Moslems rampaged.

The day started with some 8,000 Moslems surging into the streets at Belcourt to be met by an equally angry European mob. In the explosive clash, shots rang out and both groups lobbed hand grenades. Upwards of 50 were wounded before riot police stepped in.

Red Bid In Laos Grows Stronger

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Quinim Pholsena, former minister of information, took over the Laotian government Sunday and moved it closer to the Communists than at any time since the country became independent six years ago.

The Soviet Union promptly resumed its airlift and reportedly ferried arms and ammunition to this capital, which is encircled by pro-Western forces. Prompt support from neighboring Communist China and North Viet Nam also is expected.

The pro-Communist Pathet Lao guerrillas, who have been harassing successive Laotian governments since 1954 despite hundreds of millions in U. S. military aid to Vientiane aimed at wiping them out, are expected to rally to Quinim's side.

Paratroop Capt. Kong Le, who touched off the current round of civil war by deposing the pro-Western government in a coup Aug. 9, also is obviously in Quinim's camp.

During the three months Prince Souvanna Phouma had headed the now - deposed neutralist government and tried to work out a truce, Kong Le had been crying for battle with rightist and pro-Western forces under Gen. Phoumi Nosavan.

The three other members of Quinim's Cabinet are either outright leftists or inclined that way. The group brought Laos its third change of government in four days, and its assumption of power swept away the neutralist middle ground in Laotian politics.

On the military front, Quinim's takeover also stiffened battle lines between the outnumbered leftist troops defending Vientiane and forces led by Phoumi, whose troops outside the city are awaiting artillery reinforcements.

Military aid from the Communists to Quinim could be airlifted via North Viet Nam, which Quinim visited just before taking power Sunday. He returned promising that troops defending this city would be strengthened with arms from the Communists. During Souvanna's rule, Moscow established diplomatic relations with Laos and promised aid. Soviet planes then began delivering drums of gasoline. The airlift had been cut off during the past few days of chaotic political maneuverings.

JFK Relaxes, Keeps Phones Busy In Talks

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy mixed relaxation in balmy weather Sunday with another round of telephone conferences on filling seven Cabinet positions and other top jobs in the new administration.

Kennedy worked at the family's Atlantic shore home after going to 10 a.m. Mass at his parish church, St. Edward's. His wife Jacqueline, still recuperating after the birth of their son 17 days ago, did not accompany Kennedy to the services.

It was a glorious day for taking it easy in the warm sun on the lawn beside the ocean at the Kennedy estate. And Kennedy did just that once his talks on the phone were concluded.

Later he rounded up an old friend, New York investment banker Charles Spalding, for a golf match at the Palm Beach Country Club course.

Kennedy, who arrived from Washington Friday evening and plans to fly back to the capital Monday afternoon, had hoped to have his Cabinet completed by now.

But so far only three of the 10 positions have been filled. He has picked North Carolina Gov. Luther H. Hodges for secretary of Commerce, Connecticut Gov. Abraham Ribicoff for secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, and Rep. Stewart Udall, D-Ariz., for secretary of the Interior.

Although Kennedy press secretary Pierre Salinger said Sunday he had no idea when additional Cabinet choices will be announced, the president-elect reportedly is close to filling all seven remaining posts.

Stepped Up Action Begins On Boycotts

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—The fourth week of integration in public school classrooms begins here Monday, with some parents and legislators still opposed to Negroes attending the previously all-white schools.

The weekend saw stepped up activity by groups seeking to break a virtual boycott of white students at the two elementary schools—William Frantz and McDonogh No. 19.

Federal and local officials reportedly discussed ways of getting more students back into Frantz. Federal marshals escorted the eight white children who went to school Friday along with a lone Negro girl.

There seemed little chance that white children would go back with three Negroes to McDonogh, which has been boycotted completely for the last two weeks. Groups of mothers who withdrew their children in protest over desegregation worked quietly persuading others to aid them in keeping the school "for Negroes only."

In contrast, women in the Frantz area came close to rioting when whites entered the school. The homes of parents who put their children in school with the Negro were stoned. Police kept the demonstrators away from the school and allowed only newsmen near the building.

Bad Weather Delays Ike's Return Home

AUGUSTA, GA. (AP) — Snow and stormy weather in Washington Sunday delayed President Eisenhower's departure for Washington until Monday morning.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower accepted the recommendation of his pilot, Col. William G. Draper, against returning to the capital Sunday.

Draper phoned the President after checking weather conditions in Washington.

Eisenhower, who has been vacationing at the Augusta National Golf Club since Friday, had planned to leave for the capital in midafternoon.

Human Tissue From Satellite Is Studied

SUNNYVALE, Calif. (AP)—A prized cargo of living human tissue samples, which was carried 48 times around the earth in a space satellite, was being rushed Sunday to scientists seeking answers to space radiation hazards.

The payload capsule of Discoverer XVIII was plucked from the air over the Pacific east of Hawaii Saturday by Air Force Capt. Gene Jones in his second personal catch of a space research package.

Promptly loaded on an Air Force transport plane, the capsule was flown from Honolulu to California. The slender aluminum tube containing test tissue samples was removed from the cargo capsule Sunday at Lockheed missile and space division's headquarters here.

The test samples will be rushed on to the Air Force School of Aviation Medicine at San Antonio, Tex., where scientists will measure the radiation effects on samples of bone marrow, eyelid tissue, gamma globulin and cancer cells carried on the Discoverer XVIII flight.

"It's becoming almost a regular operation," said Capt. Jones, 39, of Walla Walla, Wash, after landing his capsule-fielding C119 Flying Boxcar at Hickam Air Force Base. Jones' plane caught the previous Discoverer XVII satellite capsule Nov. 14 in the same Pacific "ballpark" area about 670 miles due east of Hawaii.

Maj. Gen. O. J. Ritland, Air Force ballistic missile division commander, said "everything worked out to the split second" in the precision and timing of Discoverer XVIII's recovery after three days in orbit.

The capsule was kicked loose from the orbiting satellite by radio signal at 3:43 p.m. Twenty minutes later airman 2.C. Donald R. Brown, 21, of Norris City, Ill., one of Jones' crewmen, sighted the capsule floating down on its parachute.

Jones picked up the capsule on the first pass with a trailing nylon rope and grappling hooks.

Snow Cripples Half U.S.

A SUDDEN SLIP BY SOUTHERN BELLE — Southern Georgia Burns, from Tennessee no less, found our Northern ice difficult to maneuver yesterday. Miss Burns tried ice skating for the first time at Fifth St. pond and learned that spills (and thrills) come easy when skating. The East Stroudsburg State Teachers college student hopes to stay up long enough to really enjoy the sport. She is being helped up for another try by other skating companions who made the most of the sport until heavy snows prevented further skating. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

3 To 8 Inches Recorded; 11 Deaths Listed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A crippling huge storm spread treacherous ice and snow from the Great Plains to the Eastern seaboard Sunday.

Snow falls of three to eight inches extended from Illinois across Ohio and Indiana into the Middle Atlantic states and New England.

Traffic was slowed on highways and snarled on city streets. Hutchinson, Kan., was partially paralyzed by a glaze of ice that folowed snow. To the south icy rains slicked highways.

At least 11 deaths were attributed to Sunday's perilous driving conditions in Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Louisiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania. One crash killed five members of a Shreveport family whose auto skidded into a truck near Ruston, La.

Portions of northern Virginia and Maryland measured more than six inches of snow, even as more snow continued to fall. Up to five inches had fallen in central Illinois.

Causes Cancellation

The Washington, D.C., area was swamped with four to six inches. The snowfall forced cancellation of Monday's scheduled card at Baltimore, Pimlico Race Track.

In Cincinnati, a day-long siege of freezing rain was capped with snow, West Virginia's east Panhandle received up to 10 inches. To the north the pattern was the same.

Motorists on the snow - slick Pennsylvania Turnpike were slowed to half speed. Driving in the Newark, N.J. area was hazardous, with nearly two inches on the ground and four or more inches expected.

Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Vermont, New Hampshire and southern Maine were alerted to expect four or more inches late Sunday night.

In the West, the storm apparently had done its worst. Much of western Oklahoma was blanketed, but the snowfall had ended.

In south-central Kansas, Hutchinson struggled to repair the damage of a crippling coat of ice. Nearly 1,000 homes were without electricity for the second day, and both of the city's hospitals had to depend on emergency generators. The Red Cross assisted in setting up emergency accommodations. The blaze coated about an inch of snow cover.

GOP Failed To Achieve 2-Party System In South

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—The Republican dream of building a two-party system in the South suffered a setback in the 1960 election, an Associated Press study of congressional returns showed Sunday.

The survey indicated that, although the solid South has become rather obsolete in national elections, it remains as strong as ever on the local level.

Despite the fact that Vice President Richard M. Nixon polled 47.7 percent of the two-party vote in 11 Southern states, GOP congressional candidates attracted a 21.8 per cent. This marked a drop of nearly two per cent from 1956, the last comparable election.

The Republican party in the South ran almost 26 per cent behind Nixon; in the nation as a whole, it trailed only 7 per cent.

Some Gains

Furthermore, the Republicans ran three fewer congressional candidates than in 1956 and showed gains in only four states in the region. In only one, North Carolina, was the Republican gain considerable, while five of the seven states showing Republican decreases registered large drops.

Finally, the only Republicans elected in the South were the seven who have won in every election since 1954. In only two other districts, both in North Carolina, did Republican candidates come within 10,000 votes of their Democratic opponents. And one of these districts, the 9th, was closer in 1952 than in 1960.

The popular vote for Southern Republican candidates for the House showed a slight gain over 1956, from 1,673, 706 to 1,745,937 But the Democratic vote, which had dropped nearly 500,000 from 1952 to 1956, rose by more than 800,000 to 6,272,620.

The only states showing GOP increases were Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina and Texas. In three of these states the GOP gain was 2 per cent or less. In North Carolina, the Republicans picked up 9.4 per cent to a respectable 39.5 per cent.

In the other seven states, the Republicans lost ground. Some of the drops were 6 per cent in Georgia, 6.4 per cent in Florida, 7.5 per cent in Virginia, 9.5 per cent in Tennessee and 12.7 per cent in Arkansas.

Find Seventh Jet Survivor

PLATTSBURGH, N. Y. (AP)—The seventh survivor of an eight-man jet bomber crew that parachuted over the Adirondacks was found Sunday in wild and snow-covered mountain terrain.

Lt. George M. Davis, 27, of Pawtucket, R. I., was found near North Hudson in the Schroon Lake area.

He was reported in good condition but was rushed by ambulance to Plattsburgh Air Force Base hospital. He had been lost about 40 hours.

Still missing was Staff Sgt. Pierre Maheux, 27, of Auburn, Maine.

Six other members of the crew of the B52 jet bomber that crashed Friday night near Barre, Vt., previously had been found alive in the rugged area.

A Plattsburgh Air Force Base spokesman said Davis was found near one of two parachutes sighted Sunday.

State police said ground crews had started for the plane where the other parachute was sighted in hope of finding Maheux.

The eight-man crew bailed out over the Schroon Lake area of the Adirondacks.

State Puts Off Closing Of Span

THE proposed plan to detour Route 611 traffic away from Seventh St. bridge in Stroudsburg will not go into effect today as scheduled, it was learned last night.

The span was to be closed to traffic this morning to permit work to continue on the Stroudsburgs Thruway. The rerouting of traffic was also to have begun today but apparently all details as to the detouring haven't been mapped.

Construction work on Seventh St. span was to start as soon as Broad St. bridge was completed. The span was unofficially opened to traffic last week.

Construction engineer Louis Ruggiero reported yesterday that no date has been set for detouring of traffic. He is awaiting official word of the Broad St. bridge completion, before other arrangements can be worked out.

As a result of Route 611 traffic being routed over Broad St., Stroudsburg Borough Council approved no-parking regulations for both sides of the street.

The proposed detour calls for northbound traffic on Route 611 to be detoured onto Broad St. at the foot of Foxtown Hill and will then proceed up Ann St., along the westbound Route 209 traffic.

Southbound Route 611 traffic will be detoured via Main St. and Broad St. to the foot of Foxtown Hill.

Unemployment Legislation Due On Jan. 3

WASHINGTO N(AP)—Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D—Ill., head of a task force to work on problems of aiding areas with chronic unemployment ills, says he expects to be ready with legislation in this field when Congress meets Jan. 3.

Douglas, head of the force appointed by President-elect John F. Kennedy, is chairman of the banking subcommittee which handles such legislation and he thus is in position to move it promptly.

He and Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D—Pa., said Saturday they believe first consideration should be given to a bill similar to the $389 million measure which passed the Senate in the last Congress. It carried federal loan and grant funds. President Eisenhower vetoed a cut-down measure calling for $251 million.

Democratic Electors To Cast State's Vote

HARRISBURG— Pennsylvania's 32 Democratic Presidential electors will officially cast the 32 electoral votes of Pennsylvania for President-elect John F. Kennedy and Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson at noon-time ceremonies in the Senate Chamber of the State Capitol, Monday, Dec. 19.

Democratic electors in Pennsylvania have not voted since 1944, the last time the state was in the Democratic Presidential column, Democratic State Chairman John S. Rice noted.

Complete official election figures of the Presidential voting for Pennsylvania give the Kennedy-Johnson ticket a majority of 116,326 votes over the Republican opposition.

Under the U. S. Constitution, it remains for members of the Electoral College in Pennsylvania, acting in concert with the 49 other states, to ratify and confirm the voting preference of the majority of the Pennsylvania voters.

The electors will be guests of Governor and Mrs. David L. Lawrence at breakfast in the Governor's Reception Room at 10 a.m. preceding the ceremonies.

Colonel Rice, serving as Secretary of the Commonwealth, will preside over the Electoral College meeting until certification of the election of the electors is officially recorded.

Chief Justice Charles Alvin Jones of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania then will administer the oath of office to the electors. Following the swearing-in ceremony, electors will elect a President and Vice-President to preside over the Electoral College meeting. The newly-elected President of the Electoral College then will preside over the meeting and will appoint other traditional officers for the group.

Each elector will cast separate ballots for the election of the President and Vice-President of the United States.

By tradition, the Governor of Pennsylvania will be invitod to address the members of the Electoral College, Colonel Rice said.

The names of the 32 Democratic electors for Pennsylvania in the 1960 Presidential election were filed last August, following the Democratic National Convention, in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Jacob James Injured When Car, Trailer Go Over Bank

JACOB JAMES, 48, of East Stroudsburg RD 1, was injured yesterday when his car went over an embankment on Route 209 after trying to keep the trailer he was pulling under control, State Police from the Stroudsburg barracks said last night.

James was taken to the Monroe County General Hospital with a laceration of the scalp, broken left arm and abrasions about the body.

Due to his condition when the police arrived at the scene of the accident, not too much information could be obtained. Police did, however, learn that he had been traveling west on Route 209, on what is known as Rowe Hill, when the two-wheeled trailer he was pulling with his car began to slide.

James lost control of his car as he attempted to regain control of the trailer that had slid on the snow-covered road.

No estimate of damage was available last night. Police said they would continue their investigation today.

The accident occurred at approximately 3:15 p.m. yesterday.

Barrett Homes Being Decorated

By Pat Williams

BARRETT — As decorations go up all over the landscape, Santas are found peeping from corners, waving gaily, climbing on roofs, and sitting in sleighs. Lights are adorning evergreens as Barrett prepares to join the festivities of the season.

Last year, many homeowners were participating in a contest for prizes of Savings Bonds. The same holds true this year. The Rotary Club of the Pocono Mountains is again sponsoring the annual contest for Christmas decorations outside homes and on lawns.

The do-it-yourself trend is appare . here, and the contest is easy to enter. Just put up a well planned, tasteful, seasonal decoration, and you are in the running. If your decoration is off the main highways, and you wish the judges to see it, a phone call to Joseph Vogt, Karl Weiler or any member of the Rotary Club, will bring them to see your offering during Christmas Week. The judges are from outside the Barrett area.

If you remember the decorations put up last year by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jurgens, Dr. and Mrs. Edmund Magann, or Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ayers Jr., you have some idea of the scope of the contest. They were the three top winners, and each family received a $25 Savings Bond. So, get out your saw, hammer and nails (it would help if you had some wood and greens to work with) and get to work on your seasonal decoration

Tid-Bits

Of course, the season would not be complete without the report of lost Christmas lists or finding a stack of last year's unmailed Christmas cards, but this one tops them all; much has been written about those little cars, but spies have it that a certain Renault was a bit too large for the owner to fold up to carry home in her capacious pocketbook.

So, two adults and four children were last seen hiking back to civilization. Seems the steering wheel was locked by one of the children; a device invented by the thoughtful manufacturer to prevent the car from being stolen — even by its owner.

One of the best pieces of news to come to knowledge is the upcoming caroling by the Young People of the Canadensis Methodist Church. They are hoping that young people from the other churches and the community will join them at 8 p.m. Sunday at the church to revive the custom of caroling from house to house. That is refreshing, after all the mechanization we have fallen heir to in this day and age.

Here's early mention of the Community Christmas Party (for the children of Barrett) to be held at Buck Hill Auditorium on Dec. 22, at which the Barrett School Elementary Chorus will add their voices to the festivity.

The big evergreen in front of the Barrett School will be wearing strings of colored lights in honor of the season, thanks due to the Rotary, Lions, and Barrett Volunteer Firemen (for bringing the ladders). The lights are automatically turned on and off by a clock arrangement in the basement of the school.

Driver Loses Control, Crashes

BANGOR—Michael Dovyak, 36, of E. Fifth St., Wind Gap, escaped injury at 12:10 a.m. Saturday when the vehicle he was driving was demolished after overturning near the Blue Valley Farm Show Building.

Easton State Police, who investigated, reported that Dovyak was traveling alone. They said Dovyak lost control of his 1957 station wagon while traveling west. The vehicle overturned at a spot about one-half mile east of Pen Argyl, in Washington Township.

Suburbanized Nation

Although the United States cherishes the tradition that it is a nation of small towns and wide-open spaces, only one of eight Americans now lives on a farm.

Census Bureau figures show the rural percentage of the country's population has declined steadily since 1830. They also show that metropolitan areas have grown explosively in the last decade.

Nearly half the nation's growth since 1950 has been suburban.

The United States now has 50 cities with populations exceeding 260,000.

Mammoth complexes are developing along the East Coast, in the eastern North-Central states, on the shores of the Great Lakes, along the Gulf Coast, and on the Pacific Coast.

Some sociologists regard the entire 600-mile stretch from Boston to the District of Columbia as one vast city, or megalopolis.

Actually, one-fifth of the nation's population lives in eastern United States between these two points—only a few hours from the Poconos.

With the rapid growth of cities has come decentralization. The flight of Americans from the central city to the suburbs constitutes one of the greatest migrations of modern times.

It does not alter the basic fact, however, that the United States is now one of the most highly urbanized nations on earth.

A Night Of Death, Terror

A reign of death and terror, a parade of human suffering and heartbreak—these invade millions of American homes almost any night.

On a recent Saturday night, 21 persons met violent death in a variety of ways. Most died by the gun, but others had life snuffed out by the hangman's noose, drowning or by the merciless beating of a hammer. Almost as many more were assaulted with deadly weapons.

A young bride, married only five minutes, died in the arms of her husband outside the church. A bullet meant for her groom took her life. Two men paid for her death with their own lives; another was beaten severely by the outraged husband.

A beautiful young girl gang leader on the way to the gallows for her past crimes was killed by a gunman whom she had just shot while trying to protect the life of the deputy sheriff taking her to the hanging place. She died in the latter's arms, having found love too late.

An elderly man, trying to protect his daughter from being harmed by three men, died of a tired and weakened heart after having been beaten by the trio.

Two men died in gun duels. Three others died by the hangman's noose for stealing cattle. A man ran from the law to escape punishment for a hammer murder he didn't commit. Before the real murderer was captured, the suspect fell off a building, a friend was pinned under a steel beam and several fights were started because of a girl.

A gunman, attempting to prevent the escape of three "good people," was drowned in a fight which ensued. Another gunman was injured.

Mass killing caused the death of five persons in two separate incidents. A man's castle, his home, was consumed by fire set by land-grabbing men.

Where did this reign of terror take place? On the television screen during a six-hour parade of tragedy and horror on a recent Saturday night.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Let's Not Start Fight

It seems that a good, old-fashioned fight has developed between Pierre Salinger, President - elect Kennedy's press agent, and Bill Loeb, the rambunctious publisher of the "Manchester (N.H.) Union Leader."

Salinger, who managed the publicity for Senator Kennedy's campaign, was irked by Loeb's methods of presenting the news. Loeb is a very old hand at this sort of thing, coming by it since childhood. His father was Theodore Roosevelt's secretary and quite a man with the press.

Bill has been in the newspaper business all his life and is not a spoon-fed personality. He prefers a fight and finds one with friend or foe with the greatest of ease.

Loeb's attitude toward the press is wholly unorthodox. He believes in what the schools of journalism call personal journalism, the kind practiced in the old days by Horace Greeley, Charles Dana, William Randolph Hearst, Joseph Pulitzer, James Gordon Bennett and other such very aggressive, impudent and, at times, imprudent men.

Loeb uses the editorials of his newspapers to lead public opinion. In fact, the editorial in Great Britain is still called a "leader" because it is intended to lead. No public official should quarrel with criticism.

As journalism is developing in the United States, libel lawyers, governmental press agents, office-holders and similar impedimenta exercise a censorship which would be intolerable were it not that it cannot altogether be helped.

Take, for instance, libel. It used to be that a jury gave a plaintiff one cent damages and told him to go to the devil. Today, a libel suit over nothing brings enormous damages. Most persons declared to be libelled cannot be libelled because of the nature of their activities.

They should be exposed to the public view for what they are. And it is the purpose of the press to expose them. But along comes a jury, often consisting of 12 more or less incompetent men or women, who would not know a libel if they saw one. Unless the press is free to tell the truth, it has no greater value than a comic strip.

We suffer, in this country, from under-exposure of great evils. This has been true since the Roosevelt Administration. The principal value of the Congressional committee has been that it gave legality to much material that could otherwise not be exposed to the American people without devasting risk.

The word, Communist, for instance, has become sacrosanct. Under various court descisions a man may be designated as a Republican, Democrat, Jew, Protestant, Catholic, or most anything else, but he may not be referred to as a Communist unless he publicly admits the designation.

Ignorant persons ask: "Do you mean that he is a card-carrying Communist?" What does the phrase, card-carrying, mean? Who carries cards? I have most of my life been a Republican but do I carry a card? Where would I get one?

The Communist Party does not issue cards to please those who want to see them. But when a man delivers speeches of a Communist nature, attends Communist meetings, holds office in Communist organizations, is held in exalted esteem by the Communist Party, he is a Communist no matter what an ill-informed judge says about it.

Is Khrushchev a card-carrying Communist? I will wager that he carries no card. But make no mistake, he is the international head of the party, card or no card.

What is required is not less criticism but more of it. John Kennedy is a young man who has never been a stuffed shirt. He will need friends in the press and he will have them if he deserves them. Active, alive newspapermen are, however, resentful of the efforts of government officials and courts to deprive the American people of the essential news and of just exposure and criticism.

It is now a battle of ingenuity in writing copy which can get by hair-splitting lawyers and those who fear the dire financial consequences of suits. A $500,000 libel suit is an absurdity. No one can be done that much harm. If one's reputation is worth that much, he has no fear of exposure, for there is nothing to expose.

(I never lost a libel suit; therefore this is not inspired by anything personal.)

Try and Stop Me —by Bennet Cerf

A parent became concerned, reports Herb Stein, when his young son stopped growing at the height of five feet. A friend suggested at stretching treatment. So the father stretched the boy out on a table each morning and started pulling his arms and legs.

Some weks later the friend asked if the treatments were doing any good. "Well, he hasn't grown any," admitted the father, "but he has confessed to more than one hundred crimes."

Spirited Session

By Mason Dension

Harrisburg — The upcoming session of Pennsylvania's Legislature — scheduled to convene three weeks hence — has every indication of becoming one of the most spirited, perhaps one of the most vitriolic in recent years.

Basically this stems from the fact that minority Republican lawmakers in both the House and Senate—but more particularly in the lower chamber — have become somewhat fed up with a "take it easy" attitude that has prevailed in recent gatherings of the lawmaking branch.

There are many within the ranks of both Senate and House anti - administration Republicans who feel that quite definitely it is either now or never if Keystone State GOPsters hope to regain their once vaunted public office holding capacity ere the sands dribble through the hourglass on Capitol Hill.

There unquestionably is substance to this vein of thinking and the determination — at long last—to put up a hard-hitting and solid front against now well entrenched and in-office Keystone State Democrats.

A look-back over the past half dozen years since Pensylvania Democrats assumed office in 1955 shows clearly that while Republicans alternately held control of either one or both houses, they rarely broke into a fighting rash on the legislative front — comparatively speaking, that is.

By "comparatively speaking" this is what is meant:

A squint over the years when Repubicans ran wild on Pennsylvania's Capitol Hill and held every office and appointive position firmly — even down to chief leaf sweeper—shows clearly that their out-of-office Democratic counterparts were not merely content to sit and watch the leaves flutter by.

Quite to the contrary in fact it was during those days when Pennsylvania Democrats were definitely the "outs" and routinely the minority party in both the House and Senate, that they reached their flourishing peak.

In fact there are those veteran Democrats on Capitol Hill today who concede that "in those days we were unquestionably at our flourishing best — we were the minority party so long we learned to live with it."

What those donkey riders learned, Pennsylvanian Republicans today apparently now must learn. In a legislative nutshell it is simply this: as the party on the outside, you don't sit—you fight.

Democrats during their extended and dark minority days perfected this concept to an amazingly degree. During legislative sessions for example, they were the ones who crowed the loudest, the longest and the bitterest against the legislative doctrines the then in-saddle Republicans confidently and complacently adhered to.

For Republicans in those days their complacency and strength lay in the blanket of offices and strength they (comfortably held. For Democrats it was a vocal and vibrant fight against this—with an "in spite of" attitude and an appeal to public sensitivity.

Republicans have not yet mastered this "minority technique"—although they are shooting toward this goal in the upcoming session.

It requires hard-hitting and constant rebuttal to in-office—or in this case, Democratic proposals — an intelligent dissertation for being "against" that is designed to convince; not the (comparative) silent, blissful sitting of the past in complete oblivion of what the opposition is doing and saying.

This is what a hard core of Senate and House Republicans are trying to whip together for the upcoming 1961 legislative session. It most certainly should recall the bitter, doggedly determined, hard - fighting Democratic minority days of yesteryear. Republicans in 1961 might become fighting mad!

A fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the Trachsville Fire House and all the contents in it. The only piece of equipment saved was one pumper that had been housed at Big Creek to fight any fire that might have happened in that area. The loss was covered by insurance.

Social Security Guide

Q. How long does it take to get a social security check after I file my claim?

A. There is no way of telling exactly. It is always necessary for us to secure a record of your earnings from our central office, which usually takes a week or two. While waiting for the earnings record, we obtain the other proofs and information required, make a determination, and forward the case to the payment center for review. The check is then issued by the Treasury Department. These actions usually take around two months but seldom more than three months. You can help to assure that you will receive your social security check on time by calling at the social security office 60 to 90 days before you retire. By learning what will be needed to process your claim, you can speed your first social security check when you retire.

The Allen-Scott Report

Solving Rocket Problem

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — U. S. missile experts believe they are effectively solving a serious testing problem that has caused a number of major failures — radio interferences from outside sources.

This costly and at times highly embarrassing difficulty is being overcome by the establishment of extensive "interference control procedures" at all missile centers.

This significant unannounced development was disclosed by Navy Secretary William Franke in a special report to the Senate Space Committee, headed by Vice President - elect Lyndon Johnson.

"An intricate system of ground and airborne monitoring facilities," Franke informed the Committee, "has been established to assist the testing range frequency coordinators in their efforts to eliminate all radio signals that might interfere with space tests."

Franke submitted his report in response to a Space Committee inquiry about radio interference with missile tests. The committee had learned this factor was responsible for a number of missile and satellite failures.

While acknowledging that, Franke gave no details of such "harmful interference" on security grounds.

However, an Air Force report does cite one graphic example.

According to this Air Force report to the Senate Committee radio interference from planes over Europe caused "serious complications" at the Jodrell Banks monitoring station in Manchester, England. This installation is particularly important in monitoring moon and other space shots.

The drastic new "interference control procedures" apply to all the military services. They were put into effect by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The Air Force also notified the Space Committee that two more major shots are slated before this year runs out—new attempts to orbit a TV-scanning satellite around the moon, and to launch a Samos reconnaissance satellite to transmit photos as it girdles the globe.

Purposes of the Samos is to take over the functions of grounded U-2 reconnaissance planes. The pictures relayed by the satellite are supposed to be as good as those obtained by U-2 cameras.

The new moon shot may take place later this week if weather conditions permit. This will be the last of these launchings with an Able-Atlas rocket. There have been seven others, all unsuccessful. The latest satellite, weighing 387 lbs., will be equipped with TV and other recording instruments.

The Samos launching will be the first of a new series of five such shots. Two previous attempts failed.

How It's Being Done — The Senate Space Committee sought official Pentagon word on the missile testing problem because of certain military claims poohpoohing it.

Those were squarely contradicted by other equally emphatic sources.

Secretary Franke's special report completely confirms the latter. Publishable highlights of this significant document are:

"Harmful interference has been experienced in connection with space experiments from radio signals. Most of this interference has been in the immediate vicinity of major testing ranges . . . The concentration of electronic applications in the immediate vicinity of these ranges is so great as to require serious consideration.

"The Joint Chiefs of Staff have established test range frequency coordinators at all missile testing centers . . . The military services coordinate operations within 200 miles of these activities so as to reduce interference to an absolute minimum.

"The test range frequency coordinates maintain close surveillance over all frequencies within their geographical areas of cognizance and, prior to missile launchings, request all interests to observe radio silence as required in appropriate frequency bands. Cooperation in these efforts has been excellent."

Going . . . Going . . .?—Influential friends of General Alfred Gruenther are quietly but vigorously working for his retention as head of the American Red Cross. They are urging that on close aides of President-elect Kennedy and Vice President-elect Johnson.

Nominally the top Red Cross job is filled by its board of directors, but actually the President does the picking. The directors consist mainly of members of the cabinet who are named by the President. Gruenther was hand-picked for this post by President Eisenhower, whom he served as Chief of Staff.

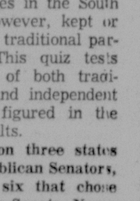
David McDonald, head of the Steel Workers, is again under fire from Donald Rarick, local Pennsylvania union leader, who has announced against McDonald for re-election. In 1957, Rarick, although little known outside his own area, scored some 220,000 votes against McDonald's 400,000.

Now well known among steel workers, Rarick is challenging McDonald on personal and economic grounds. The election is in February, and McDonald is already running "very scared."

Inside You And Yours

Hot, Freezing

What can you do for (rheumatoid) arthritis — the kind that strikes out of the blue with red-hot swollen joints?



One day your joints (especially the second one on each finger) feel tight. Soon that body thermometer climbs into the red, while inflammation reddens your sick joints.

Some lucky victims suffer only one bout, with no further trouble. But after several attacks, bony scars may stiffen the joint until it's completely frozen.

If you have rheumatoid arthritis, you can probably use treatment to soothe or cure the red-hot inflammation, to prevent and relieve stiffness, and to help stiffened joints help you.

Rest Important

Both red-hot painful joints and their owner need rest. Aspirin and other medicines can often cool—and sometimes cure—these tender joints.

So can heat! A warm bath relaxes the mind as well as the joints, while a paraffin soak soothes and rests red, tender fingers.

Paraffin Soak

You dip each hand in a special mixture of paraffin and mineral oil to form a warm, waxy glove. Ask your doctor about the details — paraffin soaks can do harm.

Too much splinting weakens muscles and stiffens joints. Daily exercises can prevent this stiffness. Physiotherapy —which almost anyone in the house can be trained to give —can defrost most partially frozen joints.

Helpful Exercise

Stand straight and tall with hips and knees balancing your weight evenly. Don't shuffle or walk flat-footed. Push off with the ball of your foot and swing your arms briskly like a British soldier.

Some joints will freeze anyway. Ask your doctor about the best position for these frozen joints. You can goose-step solidly with straight knees, but you'll waddle like a pigeon-toed duck if your knees stiffen in a squatting position.

Warmth Essential

Keep warm. Heavy gloves and long underwear may not seem glamorous, but neither is the painful arthritis brought on by cold and dampness.

If practical, you might want to try a different climate. Some arthritis-sufferers like warm, dry weather; others prefer to be left high and dry —in the mountains.

Congressional Quiz

Election Highlights

Widespread ticket-splitting characterized the 1960 elections. Voters often disregarded party labels and gave their votes to the Presidential candidate of one party and to senatorial or gubernatorial candidates of the other. Some states in the South and Midwest, however, kept or returned to their traditional party affiliations. This quiz tests your knowledge of both traditional patterns and independent voting as they figured in the 1960 election results.

Q—Kennedy won three states that elected Republican Senators, and Nixon won six that chose Democrats for the Senate. Name the states.

A—Kennedy: Delaware, Massachusetts and New Jersey.

Nixon: Alaska, Oklahoma, Oregon, Montana, Tennessee and Virginia.

Q—Kennedy won three states that elected Republican Governors, and Nixon carried six that sent Democrats to their state houses. Name the states.

A—Kennedy: Massachusetts, Minnesota and New Mexico.

Nixon: Florida, Indiana, Nebraska, North Dakota, Washington and Wisconsin.

Q—In 11 states, the Democrats won races for both Senate and Governor. Name the states.

A—Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Illinois, Michigan, Missouri, North Carolina, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Texas and West Virginia.

Q—Republican tickets carried senatorial and-or gubernatorial contests in 11 states. Name the states.

A—Arizona, Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, New Hampshire, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont and Wyoming.

Q—What happened to "Operation Dixie," the GOP plan for splitting the "Solid South." Were there any Republican gains in Southern electoral votes over 1956? Were there any Republican Congressional gains in the South over 1956?

A. Republicans lost the 24 electoral votes of Texas and the 10 electoral votes of Louisiana, both of which were won by President Eisenhower in 1956. They held Florida, Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia (43 electoral votes in all), which they had won in 1956.

Republicans picked up one Southern Congressional seat that had been Democratic in Oklahoma's 6th Congressional district. A tight race in Kentucky's 3rd district appears to have gone to the incumbent Democrat.

Q—What happened to the Democrat invasion of the Midwest? Did the national ticket pick up any electoral votes there over 1956? Did any Democratic Congressmen first elected in 1958 hold their seats in the Midwest?

A—Kennedy picked up the 58 electoral votes of Illinois, Michigan and Minnesota, which had gone for President Eisenhower in 1956.

Of 22 Midwestern Congressional districts that switched to the Democrats in 1958, 13 returned to the Republican fold in 1960 and a 14th had already switched back in a special December, 1959 election (Iowa, 4). Democratic gains from 1958 were completely wiped out in Kansas (two seats), Nebraska (two seats) and North Dakota (one seat). In Indiana only one Democrat out of six elected in 1958 managed to hold his seat. Democrats also dropped one 1958 pick-up in each of the states of Iowa, Ohio and Wisconsin, but held three 1958 gains in Illinois, two in Ohio and one each in Indiana, Iowa and Wisconsin.

Just Between Us — —

More reliable barometer of age than birthday, grey hair or wrinkles was whether the weather yesterday afternoon was greeted with "Oh boy!" or "Oh, no!"

Even with my back to the office window I could feel the snow piling up, frosting the roof-tops, turning bare trees into black and white etchings, flocking the pine trees. But in my mind's eye I was seeing none of the beauty.

What I saw were ugly skid-marks, black and ominous — soggy footprints up the driveway — crumpled fenders — the black marks of deletion marked "kill" on the social calendar — and a long Christmas list with no more happy checkmarks.

At that, I wasn't faced with the double dilemma of Dr. and Mrs. Morton Spinner. First of all, they had to wonder whether or not anybody would get to their open house yesterday afternoon. Then, when everybody — but everybody—especially in the medical world, did come, they had to wonder whether or not anybody was ever going to leave.

Actually, there couldn't be a more picturesque spot to be snowbound. From outside, the whole town glittered and glimmered and shone down below. From inside, each window looked like a Christmas card, the warmth and good fellowship within only intensified by the cold and snow without. But it might be a little wearing on even the most cordial hosts to feed such a mob on canapes for a week.

And wearing on the nerves of officers and program chairmen is the dilemma of deciding whether the program, itself, can get through; whether, if it does, there will be anybody there to enjoy it; and finally, if they'd be any better off trying to change the date.

From many years of experience, my advice would be to hew to the line and let the chips fall. If the program doesn't come through, draft your own talent; if there are only ten there, get to know each other better. Chances are that the same thing—or worse—will happen if it's postponed.

But that's their problem. Mine is that I'm no longer ten years old and happy about the first snow storm of any season—or the last one, either.

STEAMED PUDDINGS, quick breads make welcome gifts and local homemaker has discovered some handy tricks.

If You Can't Get Out, You Can Use Cans To Mold Those Christmas Gift Puddings

Steamed puddings seem almost as much a tradition at Christmas time as the evergreen tree. And what a wonderful present they make for the friend who has everything!

Instead of using your usual mold, pour batter 2/3 full into a greased one pound coffee can. After it has steamed the same length of time, cool and unmold. Wrap in cellophane and tie with a pert red ribbon. Attach recipe with directions for reheating in a coffee can by steaming one half hour. It's served warm with a hard sauce — perfect end to a Christmas dinner.

And don't forget to tell them that to make it extra pretty, put it on a platter surrounded with lumps of sugar that have been soaked in orange or lemon extract. Light sugar with a match and bring to table in a blaze of pride!

Steamed puddings freeze perfectly, so why not whisper it around to your friends that you'd be willing to make them for a small profit! A good way to make extra gift money and who couldn't use that this time of year? Freeze in cans, then deliver the day before Christmas.

And talking about using cans, did you ever think of baking your favorite quickbread in cans to make circles for sandwiches? Soup cans make circles that can be cut in half, or frozen juice cans are wonderful for baking breads to be used for dainty party sandwiches.

This is a recipe Mamie Touw gave me a few years ago; it's good just with butter, and it's luscious as a sandwich with cream cheese as the filling.

Date Nut Bread

1 cup chopped pitted dates;
1½ cups boiling water;
1 egg;
3 cups sugar;
1 tablespoon melted shortening;
2½ cups sifted All Purpose flour;
2 teaspoons baking soda;
¼ teaspoon baking powder;
½ teaspoon salt;
1 teaspoon vanilla;
1 cup chopped nuts.

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Lightly grease seven or eight small frozen juice cans or five to six soup cans. (It can also be baked in a 10" x 5" x 3" loaf pan, but use 350 degree oven). For gift giving, use coffee can.

Pour boiling water over dates and let stand twenty minutes while preparing other ingredients. Incidentally, I find that it's much easier to snip dates with scissors rather than try to cut or chop them

Beat egg until light and add sugar gradually. Sift together soda, baking powder, and salt and stir nuts into dry ingredients. Add dates and flour mixture alternately to the egg mixture. Stir in shortening and vanilla. Pour into prepared pans, 2/3 full. Bake:

juice cans, 20-25 minutes;
soup cans, 30 minutes;
coffee cans, 40-45 minutes;
loaf pan, 1¼ hours.

Bread is done when top springs back lightly and toothpick inserted in center comes out clean.

The Wyckoff Shopper

"the friendly store" A.B. Wyckoff Stroudsburg, Pa.

What a week this is going to be: tonight, our office party at the Penn-Stroud; Tuesday night, the Christmas dinner of the Pocono Garden Club, Tannersville; Wednesday night, a Madonna lecture at St. James Church school, Easton; Thursday night, the Business and Professional Women's Christmas party, also at the Penn Stroud—and so on, and on, and on into Christmas.

Which reminds me that our friends of Jewish faith will begin their Hanukah observance on December 14th. It seems very appropriate to me that two great religions should be observing their happiest, most festive days almost — and on some years — simultaneously, and that in the celebrations of both the warmth and golden light of the candle should play such an important role. May God smile upon us all, and bless us!

Just drew the name of a friend who is to receive a gift from me at the office party and must hurry down to Laura Fabel's department to make a selection. Think I'm giving a secret away when I say that? I really don't think so, for Laura's department is crammed with a variety of items women enjoy receiving — the ever essential, ever welcome nylons; socks, gloves, and umbrellas. If you're having trouble with your gift list, visit the hosiery department, and you can't possibly go wrong. . . . As for those 1.00 gifts for exchanging at club parties: what about some of the items from our stationery department — the new Ideals publications including one glossy book entitled, "Christmas Stories that Never Grow Old"; letter openers, pretty desk boxes for paper clips and rubber bands, automatic telephone directories, travel diaries (some are 2.50), address books, appointment books, diaries with lock and key. At 1.19 there are attractive Year Books for 1961 with a full page for writing, and, at 1.98 (and up), photograph albums and scrapbooks.

Marge Hunt also pointed out to me a very pretty writing portfolio in plastic with a brocade-type all-over design, containing excellent quality Eaton stationery/ Only 1.59.

As a matter of fact, every one of our departments has excellent "dollar or less" gift ideas.

Mentioning the 1.00 Ideals books of Christmas stories, I am reminded of a delightful afternoon spent Thursday with members of the Bushkill Garden Club of which Lorraine Wyckoff Flagler is outgoing president. In my Christmas talk I reviewed many of these beloved Christmas stories, and also "The Story of the First Creche" appearing in the December issue of "Better Homes and Gardens," now available at Wyckoff's.

I doubt that the store will ever permit me to go out again to a luncheon. Those Bushkill women are such excellent cooks, I ate a bit of everything on the table, including THREE KINDS OF DESSERT: lemon meringue pie, chocolate cake, and jello with fruit and nuts. "I just couldn't choose between them, they all looked so good, and before I knew how it happened I had EVERYTHING," I told Holt Wyckoff. "But it's just as well — everything was so tasty I wouldn't have wanted to offend anyone."

Holt pierced me with very dark eyes, and said grimly, "That's the darndest excuse I ever heard of for stuffing oneself." I could say my helpings were small. But who would believe me?

Those Middle Smithfield women are wonderful cooks too. My daughter and I attended a Mother-Daughter dinner at the Presbyterian church there the other evening and everything looked like a picture and tasted like ambrosia.

(Aside to my doctor) Please don't get excited. After Christmas — metrecal. Anyway, for some strange reason, I've lost three pounds.

For Your Christmas Shopping See "The Two Guys Up The Street"

PICTURED is the "well dressed" window of Bud's Men's Shop, 760 Main St., Stroudsburg, featuring many nationally advertised brands of men's wear. Among some of the popular brands shown are Pleetway pajamas, Interwoven socks, Alps sweaters, Wool Master car coats, Swank jewelry and Woolrick bush coats, just to mention a few. Stan Newman and Bud Altemose, better known as the "two guys from up the street" still have a good selection for last minute Christmas shoppers. "The two guys from up the street" take great pride in giving their customers exactly what they want in style, fashions and sizes.

For Dad's Special Gift Stop At Bud's Shop

"THE two guys from up the street, sometimes known as Stanley Newman and Bud Altemose, owners and operators of Bud's Men Shop, 760 Main Street, Stroudsburg, have all the answers to make your Christmas shopping a pleasure.

Bud says that an Arrow shirt whether it is a plain white one or a colorful sport number will always bring a big grin to Dad's face . . . and to make the grin a little wider, give him a pleetway pajama for the most comfortable sleeping he's ever had.

If the man in your house happens to lean toward the sporty side, says Stan Newman, a trip up the street to Bud's Men's Shop would prove mighty worth the trip to see the selection of sport coats that any sporty man would give an "eyetooth" to own.

And of course a new belt or tie or maybe some swank jewelry are always a nice extra gift that really convinces the head of the family he has not been forgotten.

And then for those who just can't make up their minds just what to give, a gift certificate is just the thing, so he can choose for himself and every one will be happy.

Bud and Stan take real pride in making your extra steps up the street worth while. By selling you quality merchandise you can really depend on plus extra service that pleases. The quality merchandise and dependable service is just one of the many reasons why Bud's Men's Shop has grown so rapidly in the past three years.

So, when shopping for the menfolk in your life this year, take those couple extra steps up the street and give him a real Merry Christmas.

Rugged Roof Has Big Role

ASPHALT roofing products are designed primarily for roofing but they have become among the most versatile building materials available today.

Chiefly, this is because asphalt is the best waterproofing agent known. Asphalt roofing products also are pliable as well as tough and long-lasting.

Asphalt roll roofing makes an attractive garden walk, and is effective as a lining for swimming pools and gutters. Farmers often use it as temporary flooring for livestock shelters, and to construct temporary grain cribs.

Aluminum Christmas Trees On Sale At Wyckoff's Now

NO LONGER is the Christmas tree something that grew in the Canadian forest or on a Monroe County hillside, according to Walter Wyckoff, manager of the trim-a-tree department on Wyckoff's second floor.

And no longer is the Christmas tree necessarily green. For the past few years, trees have been of all types of material—very often shredded paper twined about heavy wire and prettily fringed.

But this year's trees are even more than that — there are vinyl, or shredded aluminum, and come not only in green, but pink, pale blue, white, and aluminum.

Plastics Used

Christmas tree ornaments, as seen all through the Trim-a-Tree Shop, are quite different from those of a few decades ago. This is largely due to today's widespread use of plastic, and, in some cases, to foreign markets where labor costs permit the reproduction of outstanding ornaments which, a few years ago, would have been prohibitive on the average budget.

Ideas themselves do not vary too greatly, even though materials do. Popular year after year are the large, frosted balls of glass . . . the ropes of tinsel . . . the ribboned icicles of foil . . . the tiny water globe music boxes for beneath the tree . . . the lights of varied size, many of them "blinkers" . . . and the tapered, glowing tree top.

These days, the cash register in the Trim-a-Tree Shop is playing its own merry tune of "Jingle Bells" — a heartwarming sound in merchandising. It goes to prove, Wyckoff points out, that decorating is big business at the holidays.

The appearance of styrofoam and other similar materials makes it possible for clever shoppers to buy inexpensive materials, such as sprays of ornaments, and, using styrofoam as a base, design and create many unusual trims for mantel, doorway, table, and windowsill.

The electrified candle still remains a favorite for sills and mantel, sales indicate.

How To Get More From Sink Disposal

By Vivian Brown
AP Newsfeatures

IT'S A GOOD idea to know that appliance you have a yen to own before you invest in it.

Make sure you have adequate wiring for your collection of large and small electrical units, and space and facilities for other installations you plan.

A waste disposer, for instance, is an easy appliance to operate, but because of its apparent complexities, many questions arise, says Sylvia White, director of consumer relations for one of the world's largest waste disposal manufacturers.

One housewife believes she cannot grind up corn husks, while another may attempt to throw an empty bottle down the disposal.

"Both are wrong," says Mrs. White. "You can put anything that feels unpleasant to handle in your disposal, except glass and metal. These may cause the unit's grind ring to wear out prematurely, and glass can stick in the sewage line. But soggy paper napkins, cigarette butts, artichokes, pits, bones and corn husks may be ground up easily. Melon rinds should be cut up first."

It's a good idea to mix food wastes before putting them in the disposal, rather than putting them in separately, she says, "as different types of textures rub against each other they tend to liquify more quickly.

Large amounts of waste should be fed in a steady flow so there is room for it to be thrown against the grind ring, a steel file-like object that cuts up foods like a vegetable peeler.

"Most waste disposers hold waste in grind chambers until water is introduced to assure smooth passage into the sewer line. The food particles are carried off in water suspension, one reason why cold tap water should be run until the unit is shut off. Hot water will not do the job properly as it will just melt the grease which will congeal and stick to cold water pipes when it hits them. Disposers need not be cleaned with chemicals, but lingering ordors may be removed by putting a tray of ice cubes or a half-lemon into the disposer."

Budget Surplus Tops Estimate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury announced final figures showing a bigger-than-expected budget surplus for the 1960 fiscal year which ended June 30.

The department said the surplus totaled $1.25 billion. This was $156 million higher than the preliminary calculation forecast last July.

Final results show revenues were $90 million higher than first indicated while spending was $66 million lower.

Mutual Comparisons

Q. Do you know of any statistical service or any other source that keeps track of the performance of mutual funds? It seems to me that such a service would be very helpful. It would make it possible to find out, at a glance, which funds are the best funds.

A. There are a number of places you can get that kind of information. You'll find it in the supplements to the "Investment Companies" manual put out by Arthur Wiesenberger & Co., in the "Johnson's Charts" book, in the Kalb Voorhis statistical service, in Henry Ansbacher Long's index in Trusts & Estates magazine, in Forbes magazine's annual special study and in several other places.

You can get hold of these comparisons of the records of mutual funds at almost any brokerage house. You can also find them in many libraries.

Comparing past records of mutual funds can be very helpful. Past performance is no guaranty of what any fund will do in the future. But it does give you a good idea of how successful each fund has been to date. After all, you wouldn't want to invest your money in shares of a fund with a miserable record.

And, as you study the records, you'll find out that no one fund or any group of funds had the best record at all times. Remember that different funds have different objectives, ranging from outright speculation to strict conservatism.

The thing to do is to pick a fund with a good record, whose investment objectives matches your financial aims in life.

Q. When stock prices drop steadily for several months, a mutual fund can invest the money received from the sale of new shares at lower prices. This will benefit all shareholders in the long run. Right?

A. Most mutual funds continuously sell new shares. Those sales usually hold up pretty well — even in periods of falling stock prices. So, each fund normally has new money coming in.

If the fund invests the money wisely, the shareholders of the fund will benefit in the long run. The professional management people who run each fund naturally try to look for "bargains" when stock prices dip.

You are right — assuming that the fund invests its new money wisely and that the stocks it buys increase in value in the future.

Q. During periods of falling stock prices, don't the mutual funds realize smaller gains on the stocks they sell for capital-gains purposes?

A. If a fund sells stock from its investment portfolio at a time when those stocks are low in price, it will naturally realize smaller gains than it would have by selling those same stocks when they had a higher market value. Mutual funds sometimes lose money on such portfolio transactions.

But no fund should sell securities from its portfolio simply to realize profits so it can make capital-gains distributions to its shareholders. That's not professional management. That's skulduggery.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)

Dear Abby

Angry Horde

Dear Abby: This is for the barber who complained about mothers taking their children to the barber shop on Saturday:

Unless the barber wants me in his shop with all my seven children —ranging from 11 months to 12 years—he had better keep quiet. My husband stays at home with the younger ones while I take the older boys for haircuts. And Saturday is the only day I have the car.

SATURDAY LADY

Dear Abby: If I had my way, I'd never set foot in a barber shop, but what can I do when my husband refuses to take the boys for hair cuts? Saturday is his day to relax and unless I want my boys mistaken for girls, I have to take them to the barber shop myself.

"STUCK"

Dear Abby: I almost blew my top when I read where that barber complained about cutting children's hair on Saturdays. He gets as much for cutting a child's hair as he does an adult's. Half the time our barber turns out the kids looking like nincompoops. If he sang like Perry Como I wouldnt mind, but he whistles off-key.

BORN TO LOSE

Dear Abby: Tell that barber that the reason mothers take their children to the barber on Saturday is because the fathers are busy working to earn the fantastic price of a haircut.

WORKING FATHER

Dear Abby: I am a barber with 30 years' experience, and that barber who wrote to you should be kicked out of the union, if he belongs to one. A good barber welcomes children any time, and gives them bubble gum and lollipops for good behavior. And we WANT mothers to tell us how to cut their hair. That's the only way we are sure they are satisfied and will come back.

ANDY THE BARBER

Dear Abby: I am a barber's wife and I agree with the barber who prefers to have children come in on week-days and leave Saturday for the working men. My husband earns one-third of his salary on Saturday and doesn't want to be slowed up by fidgety kids who cry and squirm. And mothers coaching from the sidelines make him nervous. Saturdays should be reserved for ADULTS ONLY.

BARBER'S WIFE

Dear Abby: My husband was getting his hair cut the afternoon Pittsburgh won the Series. His hair hasn't grown out yet.

PITTSBURGH WIFE

Dear Wife: He's lucky he wasn't getting a shave.

Dear Abby: About barbers: I have eight boys. At today's prices, it would cost me $14.00 a week for haircuts, so I bought a barber kit and learned how to cut hair myself. My husband laughed at me at first, then he came home one day looking like his hair had been cut with a knife and fork. He asked me to try to patch it up a little. I did such a good job he begs me to give him a haircut every week.

Urges No Change In Filibuster Rule

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana called on Democratic liberals Sunday to sidetrack attacks on the Senate filibuster rule. He said such attacks might stymie the Kennedy legislative program.

Mansfield, expected to become Senate Democratic leader, said efforts to make it easier to cut off extended talk against civil rights measures could disrupt party unity needed to put over the new president's program.

"We ought to face up to the realities of the situation and recognize that the Democratic President will have a program he will want to put through," Mansfield said.

"We will need as united a party as it is possible to get to do this. If we get into difficulties over the filibuster rule there could well be no changes in it, plus the possibility that at least a part of the new president's program will be stymied."

Liberal Democrats, led by Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois, tentatively have scheduled a Dec. 27 meeting to decide what course to pursue to get the rule changed at the opening of the 87th Congress.

They contend the present requirement of approval by two-thirds of all senators voting to cut off lengthy debate makes it impossible to pass any except what they regard as watered-down civil rights measures.

Southern Democrats who strenuously oppose party platform pledges for the passage of teeth-bearing proposals in this field can be expected to filibuster any rules change proposal. Stirred by such a fight, they also might retaliate by opposing some other Kennedy measures.

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., who has taken the lead in past efforts to change the rule, predicted in a separate interview that the liberals will decide to try again in January.

But they won't have his support, Anderson added. He said he is more interested in clearing the way for passage of a Kennedy program.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, defeated by John F. Kennedy in the presidential contest, will be presiding officer of the Senate until Jan. 20.

Nixon could be expected to uphold the contention of the Democratic liberals that the Senate rules are open to change by a majority vote at the beginning of each Congress.

Dr. Sills Named To Conference

DR. FRANK D. SILLS, director of Health and Physical Education at East Stroudsburg State College has been named by Gov. Lawrence as an official delegate to the White House Conference on Aging. The session will be held Jan. 9-12 in Washington, D.C.

Dr. Sills will be among 150 delegates from Pennsylvania. In making the appointments, Gov. Lawrence said: "This conference is long overdue."

"The problems of the aging are among the most compelling that we face in our modern society. Yet our society has callously turned a deaf ear to these problems until recently," he said.

"The work done by these committee members, the recommendations they make and the conclusions they draw will have a significant effect on American planning for the aging, the governor pointed out.

Preparations for Pennsylvania's participation in the national conference have been going on since February 1960 under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Grigg Horting, secretary of public welfare.

About 2,800 official delegates will attend the national conference. They will be representing all the states and territories and the 300 private national organizations participating in the conference, which was called several years ago by President Eisenhower.

Weidner Offers Blueprint For Reapportioning State

HARRISBURG (AP)—Rep. Leroy A. Weidner, R—Berks, has given Republican legislative leaders a blueprint of how to reapportion House seats in line with the 1960 census.

Thus Weidner, who headed the House Reapportionment Committee in the 1953 redistricting, becomes the first lawmaker to outline publicly how he feels the legislature should proceed next year with this ticklish problem.

Under Weidner's plan, disclosed Sunday, House seats would be pared from 210 to 209. He said his proposals are based on the 1960 census with one representative allocated for every 56,196 persons in a county.

Montgomery County, where a whopping population jump of 46 per cent occurred during the last decade, would be the biggest beneficiary of Weidner's reshuffling proposal. Its seats would be raised from six to nine.

Two members each would be added to the Bucks and Delaware County delegations. Bucks now has three seats; Delaware has seven.

One seat each would be added in Beaver and Chester counties, which now have three members, and in Westmoreland County which now has five representatives.

Philadelphia, the state's largest city, would lose four House members, going from 39 to 35, under Weidner's plan. The city's population dropped by 100,000 during the last 10 years.

Other counties losing one seat each would be Armstrong (two to one); Blair (three to two); Crawford (two to one); Fayette (four to three); Lackawanna (five to four) and Somerset (two to one).

Allegheny County's membership would stay the same at 28 under Weidner's plan. The county's population jumped by about 6.9 per cent since 1950.

Lancaster County—With a population increase would go from four to five members. Franklin County, which also had a population, jump, would increase its representation from one to two members under Weidner's plan.

There would be drops, however, in Schuylkill (four to three); Clearfield (two to one), and Luzerne (seven to six) counties because of population changes in the coal regions in the last decade, Weidner added.

Both parties are expected to introduce reapportionment bills in the next session which meets Jan. 3.

Democrats will control the House, 110-100. The Senate will be divided 25-25 between the parties with Democrats in organizational control because a member of their party, Lt. Gov. John Morgan Davis of Philadelphia, can cast a tie-breaking vote except on final passage of legislation.

The Constitution stipulates that reapportionment must be carried out after each federal census but provides no penalty for failure to do so. The House was reapportioned last in 1953; the Senate in 1961.

3 Defendants Surrender

MADRID (AP) — Three defendants of the Paris "barricades trial" have entered Spain and surrendered to police, a government spokesman announced. He said they had requested political asylum.

The defendants were being tried for their street barricade insurrection against President Charles de Gaulle in Algiers last January.

The three are Jean-Marie Demarquet, 37, a former deputy; Jean-Jacques Susini, 27, a medical student, and reserve Capt. Marcel Ronda, 38, secretary-general of the federation of Algerian territorial units.

The three, with Deputy Pierre Lagaillarde and Fernand Ferral, failed to show up for Monday's session of the barricades trial. Ferral gave himself up Wednesday to French police.

U.N. Ethiopians Gain Control

ELISABEATHVILLE, Katanga (AP)—U.N. Ethiopian troops established control Sunday in the northern Katanga town of Kongolo which was attacked by rebel Baluba tribesmen Saturday, a U.N. spokesman reported.

He said representatives of the 1,500 Africans living in Kongolo requested U.N. protection and about 150 Ethiopians had moved into the town.

Reports said eight gendarmes were killed and 10 injured in the fighting, but official figures issued by the Katanga government in Elisabethville Sunday said only two deaths had been verified.

Eagles' Second Loss

Late Eagle Rally Fails As Steelers Win 27-21

PITTSBURGH (AP) — John Henry Johnson scored two touchdowns and passed for another Sunday in leading the Pittsburgh Steelers to a 27-21 triumph over the Philadelphia Eagles, champions of the National Football League Eastern Conference.

It was the first loss for the Eagles since their season opener. They clinched the Eastern Division title last Sunday by whipping St. Louis 20-6 for their ninth straight victory.

Long Run

Johnson ran 87 yards for one touchdown and took a seven-yard pass from Bobby Layne for another. He also passed 18 yards to Buddy Dial for a touchdown. Johnson's gallop was the longest from scrimmage in the NFL this season.

The Eagles packed all of their scoring into the final quarter. Tom Brown tallied to touchdowns and had a hand in the third.

Johnson's gallop was the longest from scrimmage in the NFL this season.

Layne scored the Steelers' first touchdown in the intitial period on a six-yard run after a fumble recovery on the Philadelphia 49.

The Steelers marched 46 yards in six plays for their second touchdown in the period with Layne hitting Johnson for the score.

In the second quarter Johnson broke off tackle and with a key block by Jimmy Orr, scotted 87 yards for the touchdown.

Dial Scores

A 31-yard return on a pass interception by Dick Moegle set up Pittsburgh's fourth touchdown late in the second quarter. Johnson then hit Dial in the end zone.

Brown took a 53-yard pass from Sonny Jurgensen for one score and sprinted six yards for his second. A 50-yard pass from Jurgenson to Brown to the Steelers' 19 paved the way for the final Eagle touchdown. On the next play Jurgenson passed to Tommy McDonald in the end zone.

It was a cold day with the temperature in the 20s. Snow fell steadily as a crowd of 22,101 watched the Steelers grab their fifth decision in the season's final game at Forbes Field.

Pro Football Roundup

Rams Hand Colts Near Knockout

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Baltimore Colts were handed a 10-3 defeat Sunday by the Los Angeles Rams, a near-knockout blow to their third straight National Football League title hopes. At the same time the Houston Oilers clinched the American Football League's Eastern Division crown and will meet the Los Angeles Chargers in the championship playoff.

Green Bay's 13-0 victory Saturday over the San Francisco 49ers left the Packers in sole possession of first place in the NFL Western Division. A Packer victory next Saturday at Los Angeles would give Green Bay the championship, and a crack at the Philadelphia Eagles—Eastern Conference winner—in the playoff at Philadelphia Dec. 26.

Houston Gets Title

Houston defeated the Buffalo Bills 31-23 to wrap up the AFL's Eastern Division crown. The Oilers will play Los Angeles, 41-33 winner over Denver Saturday, in the Western race, for the championship in Houston on New Year's Day.

The Detroit Lions downed the Dallas Cowboys 23-14 and earned a second place tie with Baltimore and San Francisco in the NFL Western Conference. All three have 6-5 records, with Green Bay at 7-4.

Baltimore is at San Francisco, and Chicago plays at Detroit next Sunday, but it would require a Green Bay loss Saturday and victory by both or either the Colts or Lions to produce a Western Conference tie.

Giants Win

In other NFL games Philadelphia was knocked off by Pittsburgh, 27-21, the New York Giants beat the Washington Redskins 17-2, and the Cleveland Browns blasted the Chicago Bears 42-0.

The Dallas Texas thumped the Boston Patriots 34-0, and the New York Titans eged the Oakland Raiders in the AFL, 31-28.

Quarterback Bill Wade went down the sidelines 66 yards for the touchdown that beat Baltimore in the third period. Steven Myhra had kicked a 9-yard field goal for Baltimore in the first period. The Rams then held off the Colts, Unitas' record of 47 consecutive games in which he had passed for at least one touchdown. Danny Villanueva's 32-yard field goal in the fourth period gave Los Angeles a little more margin.

Earl Morrall, who beat Baltimore with a long pass a week ago, started for Detroit for the first time this year and, led the Lions to victory over Dallas. He passed for one touchdown to Gail Cogdill, while fullback Nick Pietrosante ran 43 and 40 yards for the other pair.

George Blanda tossed three touchdown passes as Houston defeated Buffalo, and kicked an AFL record 53-yard field goal to spark his club. Blanda passed 39 yards to Bill Groman, 6 yards to Charlie Hennigan, and 21 yards to Dave Smith for TD's.

L-R's Farmer Holiday MVP

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Tailback Lee Farmer, who scored both Lenoir Rhyne touchdowns in a 15-14 triumph over Humboldt State, Sunday was named the most valuable player and outstanding back of the Holiday Bowl football game.

Announcement of his selection came shortly before the Bears headed back to their campus at Hickory, N. C., in possession of the 1960 National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics title.

Lenoir Rhyne had a record of 11 victories and one tie for the season. Saturday night's victory also gave the Bears the distinction of breaking a 20-game Humboldt winning streak.

JIM Stathopoulos, Michigan State freshman tackle, is from Sparta, Greece.

Stenin Wins Skate Races

OSLO (AP) — Boris Stenin, Russia's 1960 world speed skating champion, Sunday won both the 500 and 3,000-meter races in Norway's first international meet of the season.

Stenin won the 500 meters in 43.4 seconds and the 3,000 in 4 minutes, 59.9 seconds — both good times in view of a strong, cold wind.

Bednarik To Speak To TD Tonight

CHUCK Bednarik, 12-year veteran of the Philadelphia Eagles, will address the Pocono Touchdown Club's "Night of Football" tonight at the Elks Club at 8.

Bednarik is the only member of the Eagles' Eastern Conference championship team that was with the club when it won the same title in 1949.

The University of Pennsylvania graduate, who has retired twice, only to sign to play again, played on both offense and defense in several of the Eagles' key games this year. But for the past two games, Bednarik has played only offensive center.

Tonight's program will also include several hours of football films. This year's Inter-Borough game will be shown in color.

All of the area high school football coaches and the East Stroudsburg State College grid coaching staff will be present.

Newfoundland hit the 100 mark at the end of the third period. Hawley was never in contention, trailing 32-12 at the end of the first period.

Pressure On U.S. In Davis Cup

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

PERTH, Australia (AP)—Pressure was heavy on the U.S. Davis Cup tennis team Monday as Earl (Butch) Buchholz and Barry MacKay went out to try to clinch the interzone finals against the revived Italians.

With the Americans leading 2-1 in the best-of-five series, the final singles matches sent the 20-year-old Buchholz of St. Louis against the flashy Nicola Pietrangeli, Wimbledon semifinalist, and the ball whacking MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, against the giant Orlando Sirola.

Pietrangeli and Sirola, who lost the opening singles in heart-breaking defeats, came storming back Sunday to win the doubles. They outlasted Buchholz and Charles (Chuck) McKinley in a stormy battle which ended 3-6 10-8 6-4 6-4.

After McKinley dumped the final point into the net, he wheeled sharply and sent his racket sailing through the air. It soared fully 40 yards and landed in the midst of scrambling spectators in the open stands.

No one was hurt but the incident exploded an ugly mood of the highly pro Italian gallery and there were boos and catcalls mixed with menacing growls.

Both camps were optimistic going into the singles.

"I am not disappointed—I think we still will win the final two singles," said David Freed, U.S. captain. "We are leading 2-1 and the pressure is all on the Italians."

Vanni Canapele, the suave captain of the Italians, predicted the series will go down to the final match between MacKay and Sirola said: "Italy now has won a match in the interzone finals and that is so incredible in itself anything can happen."

Sirola beat MacKay this year in the French championships at Paris—on clay, as opposed to the grass courts of the Davis Cup.

Paret Likes Offense For His Defense

NEW YORK (AP)—As far as welterweight champion Benny (Kid) Paret of Cuba is concerned, the best defense is a bristling offense.

The 23-year-old muscle man from Cubaa's sugar cane belt showed why at Madison Square Garden and over a television hookup Saturday night when he swarmed all over hard-hitting Federico Thompson of Argentina. The Kid's buzzsaw attack earned him the unanimous, 15-round decision in the first defense of his 147-pound division crown.

Next in line for the new affluent Paret may be a March title defense against the winner of next Saturday's Luis Rodriguez-Emile Griffith TV fight at the Garden. Rodriguez, another Cuban, is undeated and the No. 1 contender. Griffith, a New Yorker via the Virgin Islands, is the No. 4 contender.

Matchmaker Teddy Brenner suggested the title defense but Paret's manager, Manuel Alfaro, said he's in no hurry to negotiate.

Goalby's 272 Wins Coral Gables Open

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Bob Goalby, a husky youngster from Crystal River, Fla., won the $20,000 Coral Gables Open Golf Tournament by one stroke Sunday despite a penalty he called on himself when his caddy stepped on his ball.

The handsome 25-year-old finished the 72 holes with a 23 under par 272, overcoming on the final nine holes a four stroke lead held by Ted Kroll of Fort Lauderdale.

Goalby was one stroke ahead of Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla. Kroll faded to a three-over-par 39 on the final nine—while Goalby was carding a 34 — and came in with a 274.

The caddy stepped accidentally on Goalby's ball on the final hole. Without hesitating, the Crystal River player called the one stroke penalty.

ESSC Faces Tough Week After Beating Trenton 84-71

EAST STROUDSBURG State College closed its New Jersey basketball season Saturday with a 3-0 mark, after winning 84-71 at Trenton Teachers Saturday.

It was the fourth win in as many games for the Warriors, who now have a six-game win streak working, including two holdover games from last season.

The Warriors close out their pre-Christmas activity this week with games at Scranton Wednesday and their conference opener at Kutztown Saturday.

Last year the Warriors lost to Scranton 66-64 and dropped two games to Kutztown, 101-99 and 71-66. Kutztown and Mansfield are the teams picked to battle for the Eastern crown of the Pennsylvania State College Conference.

Near Win Mark

If the Warriors can win both games this week, they will be within one game of their total win mark last season. The Warriors had a 7-13 record last year, with three conference wins.

The Warriors started slowly against Trenton and trailed at halftime 39-37. But a 47-point second half got the Warriors home with number four.

It was the fourth time that East Stroudsburg has gone over the 80 point mark this season. Last year the Warriors passed the 80 point barrier only five times.

Russ Hopewell, who had been averaging 25 points a game this year saw his average dip to 22.7, when he was limited to 16 points by Trenton.

Polanchak Gets

But Hopewell's scoring lag was picked up by sophomore John Polanchak and senior Tony Salerno.

Polanchak, from Plymouth, had 22 and Salerno of Old Forge added 19.

Warrior coach Dick Luce used his entire 12-man squad in the game and only three failed to score.

Scott Weaver and Larry Walsh had eight points each, Ed Becker and Rick Carroll split eight points, Ken Hendricks has a lone field goal and Joe Habakus hit on one free throw to complete the Warrior scoring.

The Warriors took the lead away from Trenton soon after the second half opened, when they scored five straight points. Trenton stayed close to East Stroudsburg until midway through the final half. With 9:21 left it was 57-52 East Stroudsburg. But after that the Warriors put the game out of reach.

The Warrior junior varsity won its third game against one loss, as it trounced the Trenton JVs 98-68.

Sonny Giumento had 22 points and Paul Grube 21 for the winners.

Bucks Blast Army 103-54

Ohio State, Detroit, ACC Teams Lead Basketball Race

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

National champion Ohio State has regained the touch, Detroit may at last be on the way and the race for the Atlantic Coast Conference title is going to be a beaut. That's the way things stack up Sunday as major college basketball heads into the holiday tournament tangle.

Ohio State, which had little trouble against Ohio University and St. Louis but wasn't really impressive, showed its old zip and sting Saturday night while walloping Army 103-54. The Cadets were not expected to have much of a chance, but they had no chance at all. Not with Buck All-America Jerry Lucas scoring 29 points in a fast-break attack, and John Havlicek holding Army ace Lee Sager scoreless for 12 minutes.

The Bucs, now 3-0, hit 23 of 26 from the foul line, started sending in subs after rolling up a 30-11 lead in 12 minutes and then crushed the Cadets 59-19 in the second half.

Hoosiers Upset

Detroit, long a comer in the big time, upset Big Ten hopeful Indiana 81-79 in double overtime on a 20-foot corner set shot by Tom Villemure in the last second. Charlie North, whose tip-in had tied it 79-all, and Dave Debusschere each scored 23 points for the Titans, who twice trailed the Hoosiers in the second extra period. It was victory No. 3 for Detroit, which defeated Utah State in the final five seconds last Monday.

In the ACC, Maryland (4-0), North Carolina State (4-0), North Carolina (2-0) and Duke (3-0) are on the prowl. Maryland won 64-53 at Minnesota, with 6-7 Bob McDonald controlling the boards and Bill Stasiulatis scoring 20 points. NC State cracked Citadel 88-71, and Duke added to West Virginia's troubles with a 66-64 victory over the Mountaineers. A free throw by John Frye and soph Art Heyman's score gave the Blue Devils the big push after West Virginia had tied it 57-all with 2:40 left. The teams had to be recalled after leaving the floor to complete the final 2 seconds of play — after a West Virginia time out went unnoticed by the timer.

Carolina Idle

North Carolina was idle, but plays Kentucky Monday night.

The tournaments open Monday night with the Bluegrass Festival at Louisville. It pairs Western Kentucky (4-0) against Utah State (2-2) and Georgia Tech (3-0) against Louisville (5-0). Louisville was the only entry at work Saturday, defeating Xavier of Ohio 76-64.

This weekend, it's the Birmingham Classic, Virginia Tech (2-0), vs. Auburn (3-0) and Baylor (0-3) vs. Alabama (0-3); and the Steel Bowl at Pittsburgh, Pitt (1-3) vs. Colgate (4-0) and Tennessee (4-0) vs. Duqeuesne (4-0), among the major tournaments.

McKinley Faces Official Rebuke

PERTH, Australia (AP) — The Lawn Tennis Association of Australia may make an official complaint to the United States body over Chuck McKinley's racket throwing episode in the Davis Cup interzone finals.

Norman Strange, president of the LTAA, criticized the action as "deplorable behavior" and "poor sportsmanship" and indicated he will bring the matter up at the next meeting of his ruling body.

Nothing can be done beyond an official rebuke.

After missing a volley on the final point, which gave the doubles victory to Italy's Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola, McKinley hurled his racket into the east stands which were crowded with spectators.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Not spectacular for all personal affairs but day holds promise for honest, sincere efforts in industry, business generally. Will be well worth time to aim high.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Superior Mercury day. Keen mental matters, creative, ingenious ideas; inventions, aiding promotion, science among top favored. New, healthy projects, advanced issues honored.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Vigorous, favorable Sun vibrations add to many other good inclinations. Grand day to start fresh week. Be sensibly enthused but listen to wise advice, suggestions that can help.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) —As with Gemini now, bright aspects. Don't strain but do try things you've wanted to and have faith you will accomplish to great extent. Always seek wise help.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Many roads lead to achievement and contentment. No need to adhere to anything unsavory. You can acquire new distinction, and privileges by being your true self.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Here again a period for some contemplation, but also determined action once the decisions are thoughtfully made. Both quiet reviewing and firm action are vital. Be calm.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — You can do much more with this day than may at first believe, but faith in self and in your undertaking must exist. Look up substantiating facts; discuss with knowing heads.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) —You may have to sit out some less pleasant talk and affairs but if it would be for best of all concerned, do so; you will have no regrets. But do NOT change sound principles to PLEASE.

YOU BORN TODAY have many attributes deep-down qualities that make for both success and popularity, and if you follow instincts and do not become involved with less scrupulous people, you will be the guiding light so many see. This sign has led in widely diversified fields, at all ages. Overpressure can be a fault, as can too-quick action which can hurt others' feelings. So since you DO have innate tact also, use it to forestall abruptness. Birthdate of: many architects, artists, diplomats, judges, new-industry developers.

Discoveries In Space Announced

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Important new telescopic discoveries in the far, far reaches of space were reported Sunday by the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

They deal with things trillions of miles beyond the highest heights yet achieved by man's most sophisticated satellites.

The findings, hailed by Carnegie scientists as offering reason for re-examination of current theories as to the origin, age and structure of the universe — include the revelation of:

New Galaxies

1. A whole cluster of new and possibly colliding galaxies — giant aggregates of stars, each at least as extensive as our own Milky Way galaxy. They apparently are receding from the earth at the unprecedented speed of about 90,000 miles a second, or almost half the speed of light. The most distant astronomical objects yet discovered, the galxaies are estimated to be at least several billion light years away (a light-year is six million, million miles) —so far that the light recorded by Carnegie and associated scientists left the cluster several billion years ago.

2. New evidence suggesting that a previously known distant galaxy —known as NGC 188—may be 25 billion years old, the oldest age thus found for any group of stars. Some current views on the age of stars—and therefore for the universe as a whole—place the limit at only 7½ billion years.

Magnetic Field

3. "The strongest magnetic field so far found in nature." Recorded during a violent flare by a distant star called HD 215441, it was rated to have an intensity of 34,400 gauss, the gauss being a unit of magnetic strength. By comparison, the largest sun pots have magnetic fields rated at about 4,000 gauss.

4. New and confirming evidence that some of the stars in the universe are deviant oddballs, with chemical compositions showing large variations from those normally observed in the sun and other stars in its neighborhood.

The Carnegie report said this deviant-composition find raises questions basic to the structure and dynamics of the universe, and presents a new puzzler as to how the stars generate and utilize thermonuclear energy.

The discoveries were made with the giant 200-inch telescope at Mt. Palomar, California, by scientists of the Mt. Wilson and Palomar observatories. These are operated jointly by Carnegie and the California Institute of Technology.

Commenting on the discovery of the far-out, fast-stepping galaxies, Carnegie's president, Dr. Caryl P. Haskins, said it offered "a spectacular new view of the 'edge' of our known universe."

He said it conceivably might help resolve long-standing scientific arguments as to whether the universe originated in the cosmic explosive bang or by other means.

65 Are Dead, 300 Hurt

French Troops Break Up Wild Algerian Riot

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — French paratroopers fired on thousands of rioting Moslems Sunday in what officials called the worst bloodbath in Algiers' history. The violent outbursts left at least 65 persons dead and more than 300 wounded.

An uneasy quiet gripped this curfew - bound French territorial capital Sunday night as heavily armed troops patrolled deserted streets.

The death toll included 15 Moslems and six Europeans felled by army bullets in Government Plaza.

The other victims, apparently all Moslems, were slain in isolated clashes on this third straight day of demonstrations touched off by President Charles De Gaulle's visit to win support for his program of Algerian self-determination.

The death count in Algiers was the highest of any single day since the Algerian nationalist revolt erupted more than six years ago.

Gen. Jean Crepin, French army commander in Algeria, blamed the outbreak on what he called a minority of Moslem rebel leaders and "a handful of European agitators."

Death Toll

Jean Morin, France's delegate-general for the territory, announced the death toll in a special radio broadcast Sunday night. He appealed to Moslems and European settlers to stop fighting each other and "spare Algeria from chaos and anarchy."

In efforts to restore order to the strife - torn city, authorities stopped publication of three Algiers morning newspapers. Morin also signed a decree officially establishing censorship on all outgoing news dispatches.

The stern action by the paratroopers in firing on the Moslem mobs made them immediate heroes among right-wing European settlers. Women embraced them and men eagerly handed them bottles of wine.

Crepin later issued a warning that his troops "will maintain public order without exception."

With open defiance, the Moslems took to the streets early Sunday to shout their support for the nationalist rebellion.

The Moslem outbreak far surpassed in violence and bloodshed the two proceeding days, when the Europeans of the divided capital fought riot police in bloody demonstrations.

"This is a general uprising," cried a spokesman for the right-wing front for French Algeria.

Right - wing Europeans openly voiced grim threats against De Gaulle, now in Bougie on his inspection tour.

It was De Gaulle's policy of self-determination for Algeria which enraged the Europeans to riot and, at the same time, gave the Moslems confidence to flaunt their support for rebellion.

Terrifying Day

The Moslems touched off a day of violence that was terrifying even by the explosive standards of past bloodshed in the embattled city. They sacked stores, homes and buildings, set fire to automobiles, houses, shops and apartment buildings, pulled Europeans from cars and beat them—cutting the throats of two.

In mixed districts like the Babel-Oued and Belcourt parts of died in stark terror behind locked town, many French families huddoors while the Moslems rampaged.

The day started with some 8,000 Moslems surging into the streets at Belcourt to be met by an equally angry European mob. In the explosive clash, shots rang out and both groups lobbed hand grenades. Upwards of 50 were wounded before riot police stepped in.

Season's First Big Storm Pounds Penna.; 5 Inches Hit Monroe Co.

MONROE County was covered with a white blanket of snow ranging from three to five inches at various check points in the county yesterday. It was the first big snow storm of the season.

Mount Pocono State Police reported at 10 p.m. a total of four inches of snow had fallen in that area and more was expected. They also said that the roads in the area were open and clear and most traffic was moving steadily but at reduced speeds.

From the western end of Monroe County a reported three inches had fallen up to 10 o'clock last night. Traffic conditions there were a little below normal. All cars traveled at erduced speeds.

Monroe County Highway Superintendent Frank Smith reported he had 34 trucks, seven loaders, one shovel and 64 men on the roads of the county cindering and plowing. He added the crews would continue to work until all highways in the county were open and cindered.

Roads Open

He reported at 10 p.m. all roads were open but if it began to get windy the crews might be confronted with small snow drifts.

In the Milford area State Police reported about two inches of snow had fallen and that it was continuing to snow.

In the Twin-Boroughs police reported that all streets were open and the streets not heavily traveled were slippery. Snow plows and cinder crews were on duty most of the night.

Garages in the area were busy putting chains on cars and hotels were crowded with people enroute who chose to get off the highways rather than take chances driving on the snow-covered roads.

The season's first big snow storm, spawned by a Texas low pressure system, pounded Pennsylvania with a Sunday punch that snarled traffic and disrupted bus and airlines schedules.

At least three deaths were attributed to the storm. A woman died in a Pennsylvania Turnpike accident and two men died of apparent heart attacks while shoveling snow in Pittsburgh.

Four To Eight Inches

There were scores of other skidding mishaps as the state felt the first real blow of winter.

The U.S. Weather Bureau at Harrisburg said things would get worse before they got better.

A bureau spokesman predicted snow depths across the state would average from four to eight inches with measurements of 10 to 12 inches a possibility in some sections.

To complicate matters, predictions were that temperatures would drop to from five to 12 degrees above zero in northern tier counties before Monday morning and average below 20 or in the low 20s elsewhere.

Gusty surface winds during the next 24 hours were expected to whip the snow into high drifts, complicating the work of snow removal crews that swung into action around the state.

The snow was expected to continue through Monday morning in most sections, then turn to flurries in the afternoon. Cold weather was forecast through Wednesday.

The storm caught Pennsylvanians by complete surprise. It started snowing Sunday morning and continued throughout the day and night in most sections.

The Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission reduced speed limits from 65 to 35 miles per hour in sections where the going was particularly rough.

Meantime, turnpike crews workeded feverishly using every piece of available equipment to keep ahead of the storm. A ban on house and utility trailers originally was enforced over the entire 410-mile length of the roadway but later it was restricted to the most dangerous sections.

Snarls Traffic

The snow snarled traffic in many communities during the hours persons were out and on the way to Sunday church services.

And it turned Pittsburgh's Forbes Field into a white-crested setting in which the Philadelphia Eagles, National Football League eastern champions, had a nine-game win streak snapped by Pittsburgh, 27-21.

Communities were transformed into a picture card setting as the fresh snow blended with street decorations for the Christmas shopping season.

Perhaps the only persons really happy about the early winter pounding were youngsters who dusted off sleds and headed for their favorite hills.

State police identified the victim of the turnpike crash as Mrs. Agnes Goyena, 41, Carteret, N.J. Her car smashed against a bridge rail near the turnpike's Bedford interchange.

Philadelphia International Airport remained open, although some flights were sent to New York to land.

Bus and trolley service ran behind schedule, but encountered no major difficulties. The difficulties were expected Monday morning during the rush hour. The railroads were in the same position; not much trouble now, but preparing for some in the morning.

Many Tie-Ups

Bus service to and from Philadelphia was from 30 minutes to two hours late. Trailways Bus Co. reported that buses were up to two hours late from Pittsburgh, Harrisburg, Scranton and Wilkes-Barre. Buses were 30 minutes late arriving from New York and two hours from Washington.

More than four inches of snow blanketed parts of the Pittsburgh area. Sixteen skidding accidents were reported within five hours by Pittsburgh police. Two men died of apparent heart attacks while shoveling snow.

No Affect

A spokesman at the Greater Pittsburgh Airport said the snow storm had no noticeable affect on airlines operations.

In the southwestern corner of Somerset County, six to seven inches of snow had fallen by 7 p.m. and more was expected. High winds caused quite a bit of drifting.

In northeastern Pennsylvania, the snow did not begin until late afternoon. There was little difficulty keeping most roads open into the night. Operations at Avoca Airport between Wilkes-Barre and Scranton were normal.

The snow began in Scranton at 4:30 p. m., and stopped for a while a few hours later. An Eastern Professional Basketball League game between Wilkes-Barre and Scranton, in Scranton, was postponed.

People in Towanda reported that the snow did not begin until 6 p. m. Plows were at work on the roads soon after.

Snow Cripples Half U.S.

A SUDDEN SLIP BY SOUTHERN BELLE — Southern Georgia Burns, from Tennessee no less, found our Northern ice difficult to maneuver yesterday. Miss Burns tried ice skating for the first time at Fifth St. pond and learned that spills (and thrills) come easy when skating. The East Stroudsburg State Teachers college student hopes to stay up long enough to really enjoy the sport. She is being helped up for another try by other skating companions who made the most of the sport until heavy snows prevented further skating. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

3 To 8 Inches Recorded; 11 Deaths Listed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A crippling huge storm spread treacherous ice and snow from the Great Plains to the Eastern seaboard Sunday.

Snow falls of three to eight inches extended from Illinois across Ohio and Indiana into the Middle Atlantic states and New England.

Traffic was slowed on highways and snarled on city streets. Hutchinson, Kan., was partially paralyzed by a glaze of ice that folowed snow. To the south icy rains slicked highways.

At least 11 deaths were attributed to Sunday's perilous driving conditions in Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Louisiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania. One crash killed five members of a Shreveport family whose auto skidded into a truck near Ruston, La.

Portions of northern Virginia and Maryland measured more than six inches of snow, even as more snow continued to fall. Up to five inches had fallen in central Illinois.

Causes Cancellation

The Washington, D.C., area was swamped with four to six inches. The snowfall forced cancellation of Monday's scheduled card at Baltimore, Pimlico Race Track.

In Cincinnati, a day-long siege of freezing rain was capped with snow, West Virginia's east Panhandle received up to 10 inches. To the north the pattern was the same.

Motorists on the snow - slick Pennsylvania Turnpike were slowed to half speed. Driving in the Newark, N.J. area was hazardous, with nearly two inches on the ground and four or more inches expected.

Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Vermont, New Hampshire and southern Maine were alerted to expect four or more inches late Sunday night.

In the West, the storm apparently had done its worst. Much of western Oklahoma was blanketed, but the snowfall had ended.

In south-central Kansas, Hutchinson struggled to repair the damage of a crippling coat of ice. Nearly 1,000 homes were without electricity for the second day, and both of the city's hospitals had to depend on emergency generators. The Red Cross assisted in setting up emergency accommodations. The blaze coated about an inch of snow cover.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—An Argentine Air Ministry airliner carrying 32 persons exploded and crashed today on a flight from Lima to Buenos Aires. Unofficial sources said all civilian and military passengers aboard the craft were killed.

Fact Finding Unit In Ghana

ACCRA, Ghana (AP) — Members of a U.S. Senate fact-finding mission touring 20 African cities arrived here Sunday with Edward Kennedy, President-elect John F. Kennedy's younger brother.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said they had been warmly received in most of the countries already visited. He was answering a question whether the group had discovered any anti - American feeling during the tour.

Red Bid In Laos Grows Stronger

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Quinim Pholsena, former minister of information, took over the Laotian government Sunday and moved it closer to the Communists than at any time since the country became independent six years ago.

The Soviet Union promptly resumed its airlift and reportedly ferried arms and ammunition to this capital, which is encircled by pro-Western forces. Prompt support from neighboring Communist China and North Viet Nam also is expected.

The pro-Communist Pathet Lao guerrillas, who have been harassing successive Laotian governments since 1954 despite hundreds of millions in U. S. military aid to Vientiane aimed at wiping them out, are expected to rally to Quinim's side.

Paratroop Capt. Kong Le, who touched off the current round of civil war by deposing the pro-Western government in a coup Aug. 9, also is obviously in Quinim's camp.

During the three months Prince Souvanna Phouma had headed the now - deposed neutralist government and tried to work out a truce, Kong Le had been crying for battle with rightist and pro-Western forces under Gen. Phoumi Nosavan.

The three other members of Quinim's Cabinet are either outright leftists or inclined that way. The group brought Laos its third change of government in four days, and its assumption of power swept away the neutralist middle ground in Laotian politics.

On the military front, Quinim's takeover also stiffened battle lines between the outnumbered leftist troops defending Vientiane and forces led by Phoumi, whose troops outside the city are awaiting artillery reinforcements.

Military aid from the Communists to Quinim could be airlifted via North Viet Nam, which Quinim visited just before taking power Sunday. He returned promising that troops defending this city would be strengthened with arms from the Communists. During Souvanna's rule, Moscow established diplomatic relations with Laos and promised aid. Soviet planes then began delivering drums of gasoline. The airlift had been cut off during the past few days of chaotic political maneuverings.

JFK Relaxes, Keeps Phones Busy In Talks

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy mixed relaxation in balmy weather Sunday with another round of telephone conferences on filling seven Cabinet positions and other top jobs in the new administration.

Kennedy worked at the family's Atlantic shore home after going to 10 a.m. Mass at his parish church, St. Edward's. His wife Jacqueline, still recuperating after the birth of their son 17 days ago, did not accompany Kennedy to the services.

It was a glorious day for taking it easy in the warm sun on the lawn beside the ocean at the Kennedy estate. And Kennedy did just that once his talks on the phone were concluded.

Later he rounded up an old friend, New York investment banker Charles Spalding, for a golf match at the Palm Beach Country Club course.

Kennedy, who arrived from Washington Friday evening and plans to fly back to the capital Monday afternoon, had hoped to have his Cabinet completed by now.

But so far only three of the 10 positions have been filled. He has picked North Carolina Gov. Luther H. Hodges for secretary of Commerce, Connecticut Gov. Abraham Ribicoff for secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, and Rep. Stewart Udall, D-Ariz., for secretary of the Interior.

Although Kennedy press secretary Pierre Salinger said Sunday he had no idea when additional Cabinet choices will be announced, the president-elect reportedly is close to filling all seven remaining posts.

Stepped Up Action Begins On Boycotts

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—The fourth week of integration in public school classrooms begins here Monday, with some parents and legislators still opposed to Negroes attending the previously all-white schools.

The weekend saw stepped up activity by groups seeking to break a virtual boycott of white students at the two elementary schools—William Frantz and McDonogh No. 19.

Federal and local officials reportedly discussed ways of getting more students back into Frantz. Federal marshals escorted the eight white children who went to school Friday along with a lone Negro girl.

There seemed little chance that white children would go back with three Negroes to McDonogh, which has been boycotted completely for the last two weeks. Groups of mothers who withdrew their children in protest over desegregation worked quietly persuading others to aid them in keeping the school "for Negroes only."

In contrast, women in the Frantz area came close to rioting when whites entered the school. The homes of parents who put their children in school with the Negro were stoned. Police kept the demonstrators away from the school and allowed only newsmen near the building.

GOP Failed To Achieve 2-Party System In South

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—The Republican dream of building a two-party system in the South suffered a setback in the 1960 election, an Associated Press study of congressional returns showed Sunday.

The survey indicated that, although the solid South has become rather obsolete in national elections, it remains as strong as ever on the local level.

Despite the fact that Vice President Richard M. Nixon polled 47.7 percent of the two-party vote in 11 Southern states, GOP congressional candidates attracted a 21.8 per cent. This marked a drop of nearly two per cent from 1956, the last comparable election.

The Republican party in the South ran almost 26 per cent behind Nixon; in the nation as a whole, it trailed only 7 per cent.

Some Gains

Furthermore, the Republicans ran three fewer congressional candidates than in 1956 and showed gains in only four states in the region. In only one, North Carolina, was the Republican gain considerable, while five of the seven states showing Republican decreases registered large drops.

Finally, the only Republicans elected in the South were the seven who have won in every election since 1954. In only two other districts, both in North Carolina, did Republican candidates come within 10,000 votes of their Democratic opponents. And one of these districts, the 9th, was closer in 1952 than in 1960.

The popular vote for Southern Republican candidates for the House showed a slight gain over 1956, from 1,673, 706 to 1,745,937 But the Democratic vote, which had dropped nearly 500,000 from 1952 to 1956, rose by more than 800,000 to 6,272,620.

The only states showing GOP increases were Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina and Texas. In three of these states the GOP gain was 2 per cent or less. In North Carolina, the Republicans picked up 9.4 per cent to a respectable 39.5 per cent.

In the other seven states, the Republicans lost ground. Some of the drops were 6 per cent in Georgia, 6.4 per cent in Florida, 7.5 per cent in Virginia, 9.5 per cent in Tennessee and 12.7 per cent in Arkansas.

Bad Weather Delays Ike's Return Home

AUGUSTA, GA. (AP) — Snow and stormy weather in Washington Sunday delayed President Eisenhower's departure for Washington until Monday morning.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower accepted the recommendation of his pilot, Col. William G. Draper, against returning to the capital Sunday.

Draper phoned the President after checking weather conditions in Washington.

Eisenhower, who has been vacationing at the Augusta National Golf Club since Friday, had planned to leave for the capital in midafternoon.

Human Tissue From Satellite Is Studied

SUNNYVALE, Calif. (AP)—A prized cargo of living human tissue samples, which was carried 48 times around the earth in a space satellite, was being rushed Sunday to scientists seeking answers to space radiation hazards.

The payload capsule of Discoverer XVIII was plucked from the air over the Pacific east of Hawaii Saturday by Air Force Capt. Gene Jones in his second personal catch of a space research package.

Promptly loaded on an Air Force transport plane, the capsule was flown from Honolulu to California. The slender aluminum tube containing test tissue samples was removed from the cargo capsule Sunday at Lockheed missile and space division's headquarters here.

The test samples will be rushed on to the Air Force School of Aviation Medicine at San Antonio, Tex., where scientists will measure the radiation effects on samples of bone marrow, eyelid tissue, gamma globulin, and cancer cells carried on the Discoverer XVIII flight.

"It's becoming almost a regular operation," said Capt. Jones, 39, of Walla Walla, Wash, after landing his capsule-fielding C119 Flying Boxcar at Hickam Air Force Base. Jones' plane caught the previous Discoverer XVII satellite capsule Nov. 14 in the same Pacific "ballpark" area about 670 miles due east of Hawaii.

Maj. Gen. O. J. Ritland, Air Force ballistic missile division commander, said "everything worked out to the split second" in the precision and timing of Discoverer XVIII's recovery after three days in orbit.

The capsule was kicked loose from the orbiting satellite by radio signal at 3:43 p.m. Twenty minutes later airman 2.C. Donald R. Brown, 21, of Norris City, Ill., one of Jones' crewmen, sighted the capsule floating down on its parachute.

Jones picked up the capsule on the first pass with a trailing nylon rope and grappling books.

Find Seventh Jet Survivor

PLATTSBURGH, N. Y. (AP)—The seventh survivor of an eight-man jet bomber crew that parachuted over the Adirondacks was found Sunday in wild and snow-covered mountain terrain.

Lt. George M. Davis, 27, of Pawtucket, R. I., was found near North Hudson in the Schroon Lake area.

He was reported in good condition but was rushed by ambulance to Plattsburgh Air Force Base hospital. He had been lost about 40 hours.

Still missing was Staff Sgt. Pierre Maheux, 27, of Auburn, Maine.

Six other members of the crew of the B52 jet bomber that crashed Friday night near Barre, Vt., previously had been found alive in the rugged area.

A Plattsburgh Air Force Base spokesman said Davis was found near one of two parachutes sighted Sunday.

State police said ground crews had started for the plane where the other parachute was sighted in hope of finding Maheux.

The bomber crashed after developing trouble during a practice bombing mission to Watertown, N. Y.

The eight-man crew bailed out over the Schroon Lake area of the Adirondacks.

State Puts Off Closing Of Span

THE proposed plan to detour Route 611 traffic away from Seventh St. bridge in Stroudsburg will not go into effect today as scheduled, it was learned last night.

The span was to be closed to traffic this morning to permit work to continue on the Stroudsburgs Thruway. The rerouting of traffic was also to have begun today but apparently all details as to the detouring haven't been mapped.

Construction work on Seventh St. span was to start as soon as Broad St. bridge was completed. The span was unofficially opened to traffic last week.

Construction engineer Louis Ruggiero reported yesterday that no date has been set for detouring of traffic. He is awaiting official word of the Broad St. bridge completion, before other arrangements can be worked out.

As a result of Route 611 traffic being routed over Broad St., Stroudsburg Borough Council approved no-parking regulations for both sides of the street.

The proposed detour calls for northbound traffic on Route 611 to be detoured onto Broad St. at the foot of Foxtown Hill and will then proceed up Ann St., along the westbound Route 209 traffic.

Southbound Route 611 traffic will be detoured via Main St. and Broad St. to the foot of Foxtown Hill.

Unemployment Legislation Due On Jan. 3

WASHINGTO N(AP)—Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D—Ill., head of a task force to work on problems of aiding areas with chronic unemployment ills, says he expects to be ready with legislation in this field when Congress meets Jan. 3.

Douglas, head of the force appointed by President-elect John F. Kennedy, is chairman of the banking subcommittee which handles such legislation and he thus is in position to move it promptly.

He and Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D—Pa., said Saturday they believe first consideration should be given to a bill similar to the $389 million measure which passed the Senate in the last Congress. It carried federal loan and grant funds. President Eisenhower vetoed a cut-down measure calling for $251 million.

Democratic Electors To Cast State's Vote

HARRISBURG— Pennsylvania's 32 Democratic Presidential electors will officially cast the 32 electoral votes of Pennsylvania for President-elect John F. Kennedy and Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson at noon-time ceremonies in the Senate Chamber of the State Capitol, Monday, Dec. 19.

Democratic electors in Pennsylvania have not voted since 1944, the last time the state was in the Democratic Presidential column, Democratic State Chairman John S. Rice noted.

Complete official election figures of the Presidential voting for Pennsylvania give the Kennedy-Johnson ticket a majority of 116,326 votes over the Republican opposition.

Under the U. S. Constitution, it remains for members of the Electoral College in Pennsylvania, acting in concert with the 49 other states, to ratify and confirm the voting preference of the majority of the Pennsylvania voters.

The electors will be guests of Governor and Mrs. David L. Lawrence at breakfast in the Governor's Reception Room at 10 a.m. preceding the ceremonies.

Colonel Rice, serving as Secretary of the Commonwealth, will preside over the Electoral College meeting until certification of the election of the electors is officially recorded.

Chief Justice Charles Alvin Jones of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania then will administer the oath of office to the electors. Following the swearing-in ceremony, electors will elect a President and Vice-President to preside over the Electoral College meeting. The newly-elected President of the Electoral College then will preside over the meeting and will appoint other traditional officers for the group.

Each elector will cast separate ballots for the election of the President and Vice-President of the United States.

By tradition, the Governor of Pennsylvania will be invited to address the members of the Electoral College, Colonel Rice said.

The names of the 32 Democratic electors for Pennsylvania in the 1960 Presidential election were filed last August, following the Democratic National Convention, in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Jacob James Injured When Car, Trailer Go Over Bank

JACOB JAMES, 48, of East Stroudsburg RD 1, was injured yesterday when his car went over an embankment on Route 209 after trying to keep the trailer he was pulling under control, State Police from the Stroudsburg barracks said last night.

James was taken to the Monroe County General Hospital with a laceration of the scalp, broken left arm and abrasions about the body.

Due to his condition when the police arrived at the scene of the accident, not too much information could be obtained. Police did, however, learn that he had been traveling west on Route 209, on what is known as Rowe Hill, when the two-wheeled trailer he was pulling with his car began to slide.

James lost control of his car as he attempted to regain control of the trailer that had slid on the snow-covered road.

No estimate of damage was available last night. Police said they would continue their investigation today.

The accident occurred at approximately 3:15 p.m. yesterday.

Of the five projects now under construction, the department listed two as residential at an estimated cost of $29,300. The remaining three projects came under the classification of additions, alterations, repairs and installations.

Lt. Gen. Carlos Severo Toranzo Montero made this statement to newsmen in Mendoza, provincial capital in western Argentina, or an inspection tour of military installations. There has been some suspicion that elements of the army were mixed up in the short-lived pro-Peronist revolt two weeks ago.

Deer Hits Car; 3 Cut By Glass

RAYMOND C. Knorr, 28, his wife, Janet and their two-year-old son Scott, were cut by flying glass yesterday when a deer ran into the side of their car on Route 611 near Daleville. The family resides at 25 Spangenburg Ave., East Stroudsburg.

All three were treated by a doctor in Moscow and released.

Knorr told State Police from the Daleville barracks that he was traveling north on Route 611 when an eight-point buck darted across the highway crashing into the side of his car knocking out the front windshield and the two side windows on the driver's side of the car.

The Knorr family returned to East Stroudsburg with relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Brock, Mount Pocono, yesterday afternoon.

Police estimated the damage to the car at $300. They said the game protector in the area had removed the dead deer to his home.

The accident occurred at Foley's Corners at 10:45 a.m. yesterday.

Barrett Homes Being Decorated

By Pat Williams

BARRETT — As decorations go up all over the landscape, Santas are found peeping from corners, waving gaily, climbing on roofs, and sitting in sleighs. Lights are adorning evergreens as Barrett prepares to join the festivities of the season.

Last year, many homeowners were participating in a contest for prizes of Savings Bonds. The same holds true this year. The Rotary Club of the Pocono Mountains is again sponsoring the annual contest for Christmas decorations outside homes and on lawns.

The do-it-yourself trend is apparent here, and the contest is easy to enter. Just put up a well planned, tasteful, seasonal decoration, and you are in the running. If your decoration is off the main highways, and you wish the judges to see it, a phone call to Joseph Vogt, Karl Weiler or any member of the Rotary Club, will bring them to see your offering during Christmas Week. The judges are from outside the Barrett area.

If you remember the decorations put up last year by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jurgens, Dr. and Mrs. Edmund Magann, or Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ayers Jr., you have some idea of the scope of the contest. They were the three top winners, and each family received a $25 Savings Bond. So, get out your saw, hammer and nails (it would help if you had some wood and greens to work with) and get to work on your seasonal decoration

Of course, the season would not be complete without the report of lost Christmas lists or finding a stack of last year's unmailed Christmas cards, but this one tops them all; much has been written about those little cars, but spies have it that a certain Renault was a bit too large for the owner to fold up to carry home in her capacious pocketbook.

So, two adults and four children were last seen hiking back to civilization. Seems the steering wheel was locked by one of the children; a device invented by the thoughtful manufacturer to prevent the car from being stolen — even by its owner.

One of the best pieces of news to come to knowledge is the upcoming caroling by the Young People of the Canadensis Methodist Church. They are hoping that young people from the other churches and the community will join them at 8 p.m. Sunday at the church to revive the custom of caroling from house to house. That is refreshing, after all the mechanization we have fallen heir to in this day and age.

Here's early mention of the Community Christmas Party (for the children of Barrett) to be held at Buck Hill Auditorium on Dec. 22, at which the Barrett School Elementary Chorus will add their voices to the festivity.

The big evergreen in front of the Barrett School will be wearing strings of colored lights in honor of the season, thanks due to the Rotary, Lions, and Barrett Volunteer Firemen (for bringing the ladders). The lights are automatically turned on and off by a clock arrangement in the basement of the school.

Report Condition As Satisfactory

Suburbanized Nation

Although the United States cherishes the tradition that it is a nation of small towns and wide-open spaces, only one of eight Americans now lives on a farm.

Census Bureau figures show the rural percentage of the country's population has declined steadily since 1830. They also show that metropolitan areas have grown explosively in the last decade.

Nearly half the nation's growth since 1950 has been suburban.

The United States now has 50 cities with populations exceeding 260,000.

Mammoth complexes are developing along the East Coast, in the eastern North-Central states, on the shores of the Great Lakes, along the Gulf Coast, and on the Pacific Coast.

Some sociologists regard the entire 600-mile stretch from Boston to the District of Columbia as one vast city, or megalopolis.

Actually, one-fifth of the nation's population lives in eastern United States between these two points—only a few hours from the Poconos.

With the rapid growth of cities has come decentralization. The flight of Americans from the central city to the suburbs constitutes one of the greatest migrations of modern times.

It does not alter the basic fact, however, that the United States is now one of the most highly urbanized nations on earth.

A Night Of Death, Terror

A reign of death and terror, a parade of human suffering and heartbreak—these invade millions of American homes almost any night.

On a recent Saturday night, 21 persons met violent death in a variety of ways. Most died by the gun, but others had life snuffed out by the hangman's noose, drowning or by the merciless beating of a hammer. Almost as many more were assaulted with deadly weapons.

A young bride, married only five minutes, died in the arms of her husband outside the church. A bullet meant for her groom took her life. Two men paid for her death with their own lives; another was beaten severely by the outraged husband.

A beautiful young girl gang leader on the way to the gallows for her past crimes was killed by a gunman whom she had just shot while trying to protect the life of the deputy sheriff taking her to the hanging place. She died in the latter's arms, having found love too late.

An elderly man, trying to protect his daughter from being harmed by three men, died of a tired and weakened heart after having been beaten by the trio.

Two men died in gun duels. Three others died by the hangman's noose for stealing cattle. A man ran from the law to escape punishment for a hammer murder he didn't commit. Before the real murderer was captured, the suspect fell off a building, a friend was pinned under a steel beam and several fights were started because of a girl.

A gunman, attempting to prevent the escape of three "good people," was drowned in a fight which ensued. Another gunman was injured.

Mass killing caused the death of five persons in two separate incidents. A man's castle, his home, was consumed by fire set by land-grabbing men.

Where did this reign of terror take place? On the television screen during a six-hour parade of tragedy and horror on a recent Saturday night.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Let's Not Start Fight

It seems that a good, old-fashioned fight has developed between Pierre Salinger, President - elect Kennedy's press agent, and Bill Loeb, the rambunctious publisher of the "Manchester (N.H.) Union Leader."

Salinger, who managed the publicity for Senator Kennedy's campaign, was irked by Loeb's methods of presenting the news. Loeb is a very old hand at this sort of thing, coming by it since childhood. His father was Theodore Roosevelt's secretary and quite a man with the press.

Bill has been in the newspaper business all his life and is not a spoon-fed personality. He prefers a fight and finds one with friend or foe with the greatest of ease.

Loeb's attitude toward the press is wholly unorthodox. He believes in what the schools of journalism call personal journalism, the kind practiced in the old days by Horace Greeley, Charles Dana, William Randolph Hearst, Joseph Pulitzer, James Gordon Bennett and other such very aggressive, impudent and, at times, imprudent men.

Loeb uses the editorials of his newspapers to lead public opinion. In fact, the editorial in Great Britain is still called a "leader" because it is intended to lead. No public official should quarrel with criticism.

As journalism is developing in the United States, libel lawyers, governmental press agents, office-holders and similar impedimenta exercise a censorship which would be intolerable were it not that it cannot altogether be helped.

Take, for instance, libel. It used to be that a jury gave a plaintiff one cent damages and told him to go to the devil. Today, a libel suit over nothing brings enormous damages. Most persons declared to be libelled cannot be libelled because of the nature of their activities.

They should be exposed to the public view for what they are. And it is the purpose of the press to expose them. But along comes a jury, often consisting of 12 more or less incompetent men or women, who would not know a libel if they saw one. Unless the press is free to tell the truth, it has no greater value than a comic strip.

We suffer, in this country, from under-exposure of great evils. This has been true since the Roosevelt Administration. The principal value of the Congressional committee has been that it gave legality to much material that could otherwise not be exposed to the American people without devasting risk.

The word, Communist, for instance, has become sacrosanct. Under various court descisions a man may be designated as a Republican, Democrat, Jew, Protestant, Catholic, or most anything else, but he may not be referred to as a Communist unless he publicly admits the designation.

Ignorant persons ask: "Do you mean that he is a card-carrying Communist?" What does the phrase, card-carrying, mean? Who carries cards? I have most of my life been a Republican but do I carry a card? Where would I get one?

The Communist Party does not issue cards to please those who want to see them. But when a man delivers speeches of a Communist nature, attends Communist meetings, holds office in Communist organizations, is held in exalted esteem by the Communist Party, he is a Communist no matter what an ill-informed judge says about it.

Is Khrushchev a card-carrying Communist? I will wager that he carries no card. But make no mistake, he is the international head of the party, card or no card.

What is required is not less criticism but more of it. John Kennedy is a young man who has never been a stuffed shirt. He will need friends in the press and he will have them if he deserves them. Active, alive newspapermen are, however, resentful of the efforts of government officials and courts to deprive the American people of the essential news and of just exposure and criticism.

It is now a battle of ingenuity in writing copy which can get by hair-splitting lawyers and those who fear the dire financial consequences of suits. A $500,000 libel suit is an absurdity. No one can be done that much harm. If one's reputation is worth that much, he has no fear of exposure, for there is nothing to expose.

(I never lost a libel suit; therefore this is not inspired by anything personal.)

Try and Stop Me —by Bennet Cerf

A parent became concerned, reports Herb Stein, when his young son stopped growing at the height of five feet. A friend suggested at stretching treatment. So the father stretched the boy out on a table each morning and started pulling his arms and legs.

Some weks later the friend asked if the treatments were doing any good. "Well, he hasn't grown any," admitted the father, "but he has confessed to more than one hundred crimes."

The Pennsylvania Story

Spirited Session

By Mason Dension

Harrisburg — The upcoming session of Pennsylvania's Legislature — scheduled to convene three weeks hence — has every indication of becoming one of the most spirited, perhaps one of the most vitriolic in recent years.

Basically this stems from the fact that minority Republican lawmakers in both the House and Senate —but more particularly in the lower chamber — have become somewhat fed up with a "take it easy" attitude that has prevailed in recent gatherings of the lawmaking branch.

There are many within the ranks of both Senate and House anti - administration Republicans who feel that quite definitely it is either now or never if Keystone State GOPsters hope to regain their once vaunted public office holding capacity ere the sands dribble through the hourglass on Capitol Hill.

There unquestionably is substance to this vein of thinking and the determination — at long last—to put up a hard-hitting and solid front against now well entrenched and in-office Keystone State Democrats.

A look-back over the past half dozen years since Pensylvania Democrats assumed office in 1955 shows clearly that while Republicans alternately held control of either one or both houses, they rarely broke into a fighting rash on the legislative front — comparatively speaking, that is.

By "comparatively speaking" this is what is meant:

A squint over the years when Repubicans ran wild on Pennsylvania's Capitol Hill and held every office and appointive position firmly — even down to chief leaf sweeper—shows clearly that their out-of-office Democratic counterparts were not merely content to sit and watch the leaves flutter by.

Quite to the contrary in fact it was during those days when Pennsylvania Democrats were definitely the "outs" and routinely the minority party in both the House and Senate, that they reached their flourishing peak.

In fact there are those veteran Democrats on Capitol Hill today who concede that "in those days we were unquestionably at our flourishing best — we were the minority party so long we learned to live with it."

What those donkey riders learned, Pennsylvanian Republicans today apparently now must learn. In a legislative nutshell it is simply this: as the party on the outside, you don't sit—you fight.

Democrats during their extended and dark minority days perfected this concept to an amazingly degree. During legislative sessions for example, they were the ones who crowed the loudest, the longest and the bitterest against the legislative doctrines the then in-saddle Republicans confidently and complacently adhered to.

For Republicans in those days their complacency and strength lay in the blanket of offices and strength they (comfortably held. For Democrats it was a vocal and vibrant fight against this—with an "in spite of" attitude and an appeal to public sensitivity.

Republicans have not yet mastered this "minority technique" —although they are shooting toward this goal in the upcoming session.

It requires hard-hitting and constant rebuttal to in-office—or in this case, Democratic proposals — an intelligent dissertation for being "against" that is designed to convince; not the (comparative) silent, blissful sitting of the past in complete oblivion of what the opposition is doing and saying.

This is what a hard core of Senate and House Republicans are trying to whip together for the upcoming 1961 legislative session. It most certainly should recall the bitter, doggedly determined, hard - fighting Democratic minority days of yesteryear. Republicans in 1961 might become fighting mad!

Monroe Silk Mill in Stroudsburg was awarded a U.S. Army contract for 500,000 yards of cotton webbing. Its bid for the job was 3.3 cents per yard.

A fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the Trachsville Fire House and all the contents in it. The only piece of equipment saved was one pumper that had been housed at Big Creek to fight any fire that might have happened in that area. The loss was covered by insurance.

Social Security Guide

Q. How long does it take to get a social security check after I file my claim?

A. There is no way of telling exactly. It is always necessary for us to secure a record of your earnings from our central office, which usually takes a week or two. While waiting for the earnings record, we obtain the other proofs and information required, make a determination, and forward the case to the payment center for review. The check is then issued by the Treasury Department. These actions usually take around two months but seldom more than three months. You can help to assure that you will receive your social security check on time by calling at the social security office 60 to 90 days before you retire. By learning what will be needed to process your claim, you can speed your first social security check when you retire.

The Allen-Scott Report

Solving Rocket Problem

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — U. S. missile experts believe they are effectively solving a serious testing problem that has caused a number of major failures — radio interferences from outside sources.

This costly and at times highly embarrassing difficulty is being overcome by the establishment of extensive "interference control procedures" at all missile centers.

This significant unannounced development was disclosed by Navy Secretary William Franke in a special report to the Senate Space Committee, headed by Vice President - elect Lyndon Johnson.

"An intricate system of ground and airborne monitoring facilities," Franke informed the Committee, "has been established to assist the testing range frequency coordinators in their efforts to eliminate all radio signals that might interfere with space tests."

Franke submitted his report in response to a Space Committee inquiry about radio interference with missile tests. The committee had learned this factor was responsible for a number of missile and satellite failures.

While acknowledging that, Franke gave no details of such "harmful interference" on security grounds.

However, an Air Force report does cite one graphic example.

According to this Air Force report to the Senate Committee radio interference from planes over Europe caused "serious complications" at the Jodrell Banks monitoring station in Manchester, England. This installation is particularly important in monitoring moon and other space shots.

The drastic new "interference control procedures" apply to all the military services. They were put into effect by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The Air Force also notified the Space Committee that two more major shots are slated before this year runs out—new attempts to orbit a TV-scanning satellite around the moon, and to launch a Samos reconnaissance satellite to transmit photos as it girdles the globe.

Purposes of the Samos is to take over the functions of grounded U-2 reconnaissance planes. The pictures relayed by the satellite are supposed to be as good as those obtained by U-2 cameras.

The new moon shot may take place later this week if weather conditions permit. This will be the last of these launchings with an Able-Atlas rocket. There have been seven others, all unsuccessful. The latest satellite, weighing 387 lbs., will be equipped with TV and other recording instruments.

The Samos launching will be the first of a new series of five such shots. Two previous attempts failed.

How It's Being Done — The Senate Space Committee sought official Pentagon word on the missile testing problem because of certain military claims poohpoohing it.

Those were squarely contradicted by other equally emphatic sources.

Secretary Franke's special report completely confirms the latter. Publishable highlights of this significant document are:

"Harmful interference has been experienced in connection with space experiments from radio signals. Most of this interference has been in the immediate vicinity of major testing ranges . . . The concentration of electronic applications in the immediate vicinity of these ranges is so great as to require serious consideration.

"The Joint Chiefs of Staff have established test range frequency coordinators at all missile testing centers . . . The military services coordinate operations within 200 miles of these activities so as to reduce interference to an absolute minimum.

"The test range frequency coordinates maintain close surveillance over all frequencies within their geographical areas of cognizance and, prior to missile launchings, request all interests to observe radio silence as required in appropriate frequency bands. Cooperation in these efforts has been excellent."

Going . . . Going . . .?—Influential friends of General Alfred Gruenther are quietly but vigorously working for his retention as head of the American Red Cross. They are urging that on close aides of President-elect Kennedy and Vice President-elect Johnson.

Nominally the top Red Cross job is filled by its board of directors, but actually the President does the picking. The directors consist mainly of members of the cabinet who are named by the President. Gruenther was hand-picked for this post by President Eisenhower, whom he served as Chief of Staff.

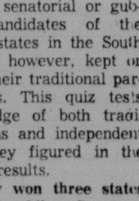
David McDonald, head of the Steel Workers, is again under fire from Donald Rarick, local Pennsylvania union leader, who has announced against McDonald for re-election. In 1957, Rarick, although little known outside his own area, scored some 220,000 votes against McDonald's 400,000.

Now well known among steel workers, Rarick is challenging McDonald on personal and economic grounds. The election is in February, and McDonald is already running "very scared."

Inside You And Yours

Hot, Freezing

What can you do for (rheumatoid) arthritis — the kind that strikes out of the blue with red-hot swollen joints?



One day your joints (especially the second one on each finger) feel tight. Soon that body thermometer climbs into the red, while inflammation reddens your sick joints.

Some lucky victims suffer only one bout, with no further trouble. But after several attacks, bony scars may stiffen the joint until it's completely frozen.

If you have rheumatoid arthritis, you can probably use treatment to soothe or cure the red-hot inflammation, to prevent and relieve stiffness, and to help stiffened joints help you.

Rest Important

Both red-hot painful joints and their owner need rest. Aspirin and other medicines can often cool—and sometimes cure—these tender joints.

So can heat! A warm bath relaxes the mind as well as the joints, while a paraffin soak soothes and rests red, tender fingers.

Paraffin Soak

You dip each hand in a special mixture of paraffin and mineral oil to form a warm, waxy glove. Ask your doctor about the details — paraffin soaks can do harm.

Too much splinting weakens muscles and stiffens joints. Daily exercises can prevent this stiffness. Physiotherapy —which almost anyone in the house can be trained to give —can defrost most partially frozen joints.

Helpful Exercise

Stand straight and tall with hips and knees balancing your weight evenly. Don't shuffle or walk flat-footed. Push off with the ball of your foot and swing your arms briskly like a British soldier.

Some joints will freeze anyway. Ask your doctor about the best position for these frozen joints. You can goose-step solidly with straight knees, but you'll waddle like a pigeon-toed duck if your knees stiffen in a squatting position.

Warmth Essential

Keep warm. Heavy gloves and long underwear may not seem glamorous, but neither is the painful arthritis brought on by cold and dampness.

If practical, you might want to try a different climate. Some arthritis-sufferers like warm, dry weather; others prefer to be left high and dry —in the mountains.

Congressional Quiz

Election Highlights

Widespread ticket-splitting characterized the 1960 elections. Voters often disregarded party labels and gave their votes to the Presidential candidate of one party and to senatorial or gubernatorial candidates of the other. Some states in the South and Midwest, however, kept or returned to their traditional party affiliations. This quiz tests your knowledge of both traditional patterns and independent voting as they figured in the 1960 election results.

Q—Kennedy won three states that elected Republican Senators, and Nixon won six that chose Democrats for the Senate. Name the states.

A—Kennedy: Delaware, Massachusetts and New Jersey.

Nixon: Alaska, Oklahoma, Oregon, Montana, Tennessee and Virginia.

Q—Kennedy won three states that elected Republican Governors, and Nixon carried six that sent Democrats to their state houses. Name the states.

Nixon: Florida, Indiana, Nebraska, North Dakota, Washington and Wisconsin.

A—Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Illinois, Michigan, Missouri, North Carolina, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Texas and West Virginia.

A—Arizona, Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, New Hampshire, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont and Wyoming.

Q—What happened to "Operation Dixie," the GOP plan for splitting the "Solid South." Were there any Republican gains in Southern electoral votes over 1956? Were there any Republican Congressional gains in the South over 1956?

A. Republicans lost the 24 electoral votes of Texas and the 10 electoral votes of Louisiana, both of which were won by President Eisenhower in 1956. They held Florida, Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia (43 electoral votes in all), which they had won in 1956.

Republicans picked up one Southern Congressional seat that had been Democratic in Oklahoma's 6th Congressional district. A tight race in Kentucky's 3rd district appears to have gone to the incumbent Democrat.

Q—What happened to the Democrat invasion of the Midwest? Did the national ticket pick up any electoral votes there over 1956? Did any Democratic Congressmen first elected in 1958 hold their seats in the Midwest?

A—Kennedy picked up the 18 electoral votes of Illinois, Michigan and Minnesota, which had gone for President Eisenhower in 1956.

Of 22 Midwestern Congressional districts that switched to the Democrats in 1958, 13 returned to the Republican fold in 1960 and a 14th had already switched back in a special December, 1959 election (Iowa, 4). Democratic gains from 1958 were completely wiped out in Kansas (two seats), Nebraska (two seats) and North Dakota (one seat). In Indiana only one Democrat out of six elected in 1958 managed to hold his seat. Democrats also dropped one 1958 pick-up in each of the states of Iowa, Ohio and Wisconsin, but held three 1958 gains in Illinois, two in Ohio and one each in Indiana, Iowa and Wisconsin.

Just Between Us — —

More reliable barometer of age than birthday, grey hair or wrinkles was whether the weather yesterday afternoon was greeted with "Oh boy!" or "Oh, no!"

Even with my back to the office window I could feel the snow piling up, frosting the roof-tops, turning bare trees into black and white etchings, flocking the pine trees. But in my mind's eye I was seeing none of the beauty.

What I saw were ugly skid-marks, black and ominous — soggy footprints up the driveway — crumpled fenders — the black marks of deletion marked "kill" on the social calendar — and a long Christmas list with no more happy checkmarks.

At that, I wasn't faced with the double dilemma of Dr. and Mrs. Morton Spinner. First of all, they had to wonder whether or not anybody would get to their open house yesterday afternoon. Then, when everybody — but everybody— especially in the medical world, did come, they had to wonder whether or not anybody was ever going to leave.

Actually, there couldn't be a more picturesque spot to be snowbound. From outside, the whole town glittered and glimmered and shone down below. From inside, each window looked like a Christmas card, the warmth and good fellowship within only intensified by the cold and snow without. But it might be a little wearing on even the most cordial hosts to feed such a mob on canapes for a week.

And wearing on the nerves of officers and program chairmen is the dilemma of deciding whether the program, itself, can get through; whether, if it does, there will be anybody there to enjoy it; and finally, if they'd be any better off trying to change the date.

From many years of experience, my advice would be to hew to the line and let the chips fall. If the program doesn't come through, draft your own talent; if there are only ten there, get to know each other better. Chances are that the same thing—or worse—will happen if it's postponed.

But that's their problem. Mine is that I'm no longer ten years old and happy about the first snow storm of any season—or the last one, either.

STEAMED PUDDINGS, quick breads make welcome gifts and local homemaker has discovered some handy tricks.

If You Can't Get Out, You Can Use Cans To Mold Those Christmas Gift Puddings

Steamed puddings seem almost as much a tradition at Christmas time as the evergreen tree. And what a wonderful present they make for the friend who has everything!

Instead of using your usual mold, pour batter 2/3 full into a greased one pound coffee can. After it has steamed the same length of time, cool and unmold. Wrap in cellophane and tie with a pert red ribbon. Attach recipe with directions for reheating in a coffee can by steaming one half hour. It's served warm with a hard sauce — perfect end to a Christmas dinner.

And don't forget to tell them that to make it extra pretty, put it on a platter surrounded with lumps of sugar that have been soaked in orange or lemon extract. Light sugar with a match and bring to table in a blaze of pride!

Steamed puddings freeze perfectly, so why not whisper it around to your friends that you'd be willing to make them for a small profit! A good way to make extra gift money and who couldn't use that this time of year? Freeze in cans, then deliver the day before Christmas.

And talking about using cans, did you ever think of baking your favorite quickbread in cans to make circles for sandwiches? Soup cans make circles that can be cut in half, or frozen juice cans are wonderful for baking breads to be used for dainty party sandwiches.

This is a recipe Mamie Touw gave me a few years ago; it's good just with butter, and it's luscious as a sandwich with cream cheese as the filling.

Date Nut Bread

1 cup chopped pitted dates;
1½ cups boiling water;
1 egg;
3 cups sugar;
1 tablespoon melted shortening;
2½ cups sifted All Purpose flour;
2 teaspoons baking soda;
¼ teaspoon baking powder;
½ teaspoon salt;
1 teaspoon vanilla;
1 cup chopped nuts.

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Lightly grease seven or eight small frozen juice cans or five to six soup cans. (It can also be baked in a 10" x 5" x 3" loaf pan, but use 350 degree oven). For gift giving, use coffee can.

Pour boiling water over dates and let stand twenty minutes while preparing other ingredients. Incidentally, I find that it's much easier to snip dates with scissors rather than try to cut or chop them.

Beat egg until light and add sugar gradually. Sift together soda, baking powder, and salt and stir nuts into dry ingredients. Add dates and flour mixture alternately to the egg mixture. Stir in shortening and vanilla. Pour into prepared pans, 2/3 full. Bake:

juice cans, 20-25 minutes;
soup cans, 30 minutes;
coffee cans, 40-45 minutes;
loaf pan, 1¼ hours.

Bread is done when top springs back lightly and toothpick inserted in center comes out clean.

The Wyckoff Shopper

"the friendly store" A.R. Wyckoff

What a week this is going to be: tonight, our office party at the Penn-Stroud; Tuesday night, the Christmas dinner of the Pocono Garden Club, Tannersville; Wednesday night, a Madonna lecture at St. James Church school, Easton; Thursday night, the Business and Professional Women's Christmas party, also at the Penn Stroud—and so on, and on, and on into Christmas.

Which reminds me that our friends of Jewish faith will begin their Hanukah observance on December 14th. It seems very appropriate to me that two great religions should be observing their happiest, most festive days almost — and on some years — simultaneously, and that in the celebrations of both the warmth and golden light of the candle should play such an important role. May God smile upon us all, and bless us!

Just drew the name of a friend who is to receive a gift from me at the office party and must hurry down to Laura Fabel's department to make a selection. Think I'm giving a secret away when I say that? I really don't think so, for Laura's department is crammed with a variety of items women enjoy receiving — the ever essential, ever welcome nylons; socks, gloves, and umbrellas. If you're having trouble with your gift list, visit the hosiery department, and you can't possibly go wrong.

. . . As for those 1.00 gifts for exchanging at club parties: what about some of the items from our stationery department — the new Ideals publications including one glossy book entitled, "Christmas Stories that Never Grow Old"; letter openers, pretty desk boxes for paper clips and rubber bands, automatic telephone directories, travel diaries (some are 2.50), address books, appointment books, diaries with lock and key. At 1.19 there are attractive Year Books for 1961 with a full page for writing, and, at 1.98 (and up), photograph albums and scrapbooks.

Marge Hunt also pointed out to me a very pretty writing portfolio in plastic with a brocade-type all-over design, containing excellent quality Eaton stationery/ Only 1.59.

As a matter of fact, every one of our departments has excellent "dollar or less" gift ideas.

Mentioning the 1.00 Ideals books of Christmas stories, I am reminded of a delightful afternoon spent Thursday with members of the Bushkill Garden Club of which Lorraine Wyckoff Flagler is outgoing president. In my Christmas talk I reviewed many of these beloved Christmas stories, and also "The Story of the First Creche" appearing in the December issue of "Better Homes and Gardens," now available at Wyckoff's.

I doubt that the store will ever permit me to go out again to a luncheon. Those Bushkill women are such excellent cooks, I ate a bit of everything on the table, including THREE KINDS OF DESSERT: lemon meringue pie, chocolate cake, and jello with fruit and nuts. "I just couldn't choose between them, they all looked so good, and before I knew how it happened I had EVERYTHING," I told Holt Wyckoff. "But it's just as well — everything was so tasty I wouldn't have wanted to offend anyone."

Holt pierced me with very dark eyes, and said grimly, "That's the darndest excuse I ever heard of for stuffing oneself." I could say my helpings were small. But who would believe me?

Those Middle Smithfield women are wonderful cooks too. My daughter and I attended a Mother-Daughter dinner at the Presbyterian church there the other evening and everything looked like a picture and tasted like ambrosia.

(Aside to my doctor) Please don't get excited. After Christmas — metrecal. Anyway, for some strange reason, I've lost three pounds.

For Your Christmas Shopping See "The Two Guys Up The Street"

For Dad's Special Gift Stop At Bud's Shop

"THE two guys from up the street, sometimes known as Stanley Newman and Bud Altemose, owners and operators of Bud's Men Shop, 760 Main Street, Stroudsburg, have all the answers to make your Christmas shopping a pleasure.

Bud says that an Arrow shirt whether it is a plain white one or a colorful sport number will always bring a big grin to Dad's face . . . and to make the grin a little wider, give him a pleetway pajama for the most comfortable sleeping he's ever had.

If the man in your house happens to lean toward the sporty side, says Stan Newman, a trip up the street to Bud's Men's Shop would prove mighty worth the trip to see the selection of sport coats that any sporty man would give an "eyetooth" to own.

And of course a new belt or tie or maybe some swank jewelry are always a nice extra gift that really convinces the head of the family he has not been forgotten.

And then for those who just can't make up their minds just what to give, a gift certificate is just the thing, so he can choose for himself and every one will be happy.

Bud and Stan take real pride in making your extra steps up the street worth while. By selling you quality merchandise you can really depend on plus extra service that pleases. The quality merchandise and dependable service is just one of the many reasons why Bud's Men's Shop has grown so rapidly in the past three years.

So, when shopping for the menfolk in your life this year, take those couple extra steps up the street and give him a real Merry Christmas.

Rugged Roof Has Big Role

ASPHALT roofing products are designed primarily for roofing but they have become among the most versatile building materials available today.

Chiefly, this is because asphalt is the best waterproofing agent known. Asphalt roofing products also are pliable as well as tough and long-lasting.

Asphalt roll roofing makes an attractive garden walk, and is effective as a lining for swimming pools and gutters. Farmers often use it as temporary flooring for livestock shelters, and to construct temporary grain cribs.

Aluminum Christmas Trees On Sale At Wyckoff's Now

NO LONGER is the Christmas tree something that grew in the Canadian forest or on a Monroe County hillside, according to Walter Wyckoff, manager of the trim-a-tree department on Wyckoff's second floor.

And no longer is the Christmas tree necessarily green. For the past few years, trees have been of all types of material—very often shredded paper twined about heavy wire and prettily fringed.

But this year's trees are even more than that — there are vinyl, or shredded aluminum, and come not only in green, but pink, pale blue, white, and aluminum.

Plastics Used

Christmas tree ornaments, as seen all through the Trim-a-Tree Shop, are quite different from those of a few decades ago. This is largely due to today's widespread use of plastic, and, in some cases, to foreign markets where labor costs permit the reproduction of outstanding ornaments which, a few years ago, would have been prohibitive on the average budget.

Ideas themselves do not vary too greatly, even though materials do. Popular year after year are the large, frosted balls of glass . . . the ropes of tinsel . . . the ribboned icicles of foil . . . the tiny water globe music boxes for beneath the tree . . . the lights of varied size, many of them "blinkers" . . . and the tapered, glowing tree top.

These days, the cash register in the Trim-a-Tree Shop is playing its own merry tune of "Jingle Bells" — a heartwarming sound in merchandising. It goes to prove, Wyckoff points out, that decorating is big business at the holidays.

The appearance of styrofoam and other similar materials makes it possible for clever shoppers to buy inexpensive materials, such as sprays of ornaments, and, using styrofoam as a base, design and create many unusual trims for mantel, doorway, table, and windowsill.

The electrified candle still remains a favorite for sills and mantel, sales indicate.

How To Get More From Sink Disposal

By Vivian Brown
AP Newsfeatures

IT'S A GOOD idea to know that appliance you have a yen to own before you invest in it.

Make sure you have adequate wiring for your collection of large and small electrical units, and space and facilities for other installations you plan.

A waste disposer, for instance, is an easy appliance to operate, but because of its apparent complexities, many questions arise, says Sylvia White, director of consumer relations for one of the world's largest waste disposal manufacturers.

One housewife believes she cannot grind up corn husks, while another may attempt to throw an empty bottle down the disposal.

"Both are wrong," says Mrs. White. "You can put anything that feels unpleasant to handle in your disposal, except glass and metal. These may cause the unit's grind ring to wear out prematurely, and glass can stick in the sewage line. But soggy paper napkins, cigarette butts, artichokes, pits, bones and corn husks may be ground up easily. Melon rinds should be cut up first."

It's a good idea to mix food wastes before putting them in the disposal, rather than putting them in separately, she says, "as different types of textures rub against each other they tend to liquify more quickly.

Large amounts of waste should be fed in a steady flow so there is room for it to be thrown against the grind ring, a steel file-like object that cuts up foods like a vegetable peeler.

"Most waste disposers hold waste in grind chambers until water is introduced to assure smooth passage into the sewer line. The food particles are carried off in water suspension, one reason why cold tap water should be run until the unit is shut off. Hot water will not do the job properly as it will just melt the grease which will congeal and stick to cold water pipes when it hits them. Disposers need not be cleaned with chemicals, but lingering ordors may be removed by putting a tray of ice cubes or a half-lemon into the disposer."

Of course Mother will enjoy any gift for the home, but why not a gift to make her work easier? A new kitchen stepstool, rolling tea cart (the new chrome models are beautiful) or perhaps a new dinette set with washable plastic top?

For the kiddies, you'll find a nice selection of musical rockers with built-in music boxes . . . table and chair sets . . . tricycles and many other exciting gifts to delight the children.

For the home in general, a wide variety of pictures, plaques and other wall decorations is available. Hassocks, boudoir chairs, rugs, table floor or ceiling pole lamps are equally appropriate gifts.

Visit A. C. Miller Furniture Store at Fourth and Main Sts. in Stroudsburg for a Christmas gift that will be enjoyed for years to come!

Budget Surplus Tops Estimate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury announced final figures showing a bigger-than-expected budget surplus for the 1960 fiscal year which ended June 30.

The department said the surplus totaled $1.25 billion. This was $156 million higher than the preliminary calculation forecast last July.

Final results show revenues were $90 million higher than first indicated while spending was $66 million lower.

Mutual Comparisons

Q. Do you know of any statistical service or any other source that keeps track of the performance of mutual funds? It seems to me that such a service would be very helpful. It would make it possible to find out, at a glance, which funds are the best funds.

A. There are a number of places you can get that kind of information. You'll find it in the supplements to the "Investment Companies" manual put out by Arthur Wiesenberger & Co., in the "Johnson's Charts" book, in the Kalb Voorhis statistical service, in Henry Ansbacher Long's index in Trusts & Estates magazine, in Forbes magazine's annual special study and in several other places.

You can get hold of these comparisons of the records of mutual funds at almost any brokerage house. You can also find them in many libraries.

Comparing past records of mutual funds can be very helpful. Past performance is no guaranty of what any fund will do in the future. But it does give you a good idea of how successful each fund has been to date. After all, you wouldn't want to invest your money in shares of a fund with a miserable record.

And, as you study the records, you'll find out that no one fund or any group of funds had the best record at all times. Remember that different funds have different objectives, ranging from outright speculation to strict conservatism.

The thing to do is to pick a fund with a good record, whose investment objectives matches your financial aims in life.

Q. When stock prices drop steadily for several months, a mutual fund can invest the money received from the sale of new shares at lower prices. This will benefit all shareholders in the long run. Right?

A. Most mutual funds continuously sell new shares. Those sales usually hold up pretty well — even in periods of falling stock prices. So, each fund normally has new money coming in.

If the fund invests the money wisely, the shareholders of the fund will benefit in the long run. The professional management people who run each fund naturally try to look for "bargains" when stock prices dip.

You are right — assuming that the fund invests its new money wisely and that the stocks it buys increase in value in the future.

Q. During periods of falling stock prices, don't the mutual funds realize smaller gains on the stocks they sell for capital-gains purposes?

A. If a fund sells stock from its investment portfolio at a time when those stocks are low in price, it will naturally realize smaller gains than it would have by selling those same stocks when they had a higher market value. Mutual funds sometimes lose money on such portfolio transactions.

But no fund should sell securities from its portfolio simply to realize profits so it can make capital-gains distributions to its shareholders. That's not professional management. That's skulduggery.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)

Explorers Gather Toys For Needy

NEWFOUNDLAND — The collection of toys for needy children is being continued this week by the Explorer Scouts of Post 192. Also continuing this week is the collection of clothing sponsored by the SWJS Student Council.

These activities are scheduled for the week in this area.

Dear Abby

Angry Horde

Dear Abby: This is for the barber who complained about mothers taking their children to the barber shop on Saturday:

Unless the barber wants me in his shop with all my seven children —ranging from 11 months to 12 years—he had better keep quiet. My husband stays at home with the younger ones while I take the older boys for haircuts. And Saturday is the only day I have the car.

SATURDAY LADY

Dear Abby: If I had my way, I'd never set foot in a barber shop, but what can I do when my husband refuses to take the boys for hair cuts? Saturday is his day to relax and unless I want my boys mistaken for girls, I have to take them to the barber shop myself.

"STUCK"

Dear Abby: I almost blew my top when I read where that barber complained about cutting children's hair on Saturdays. He gets as much for cutting a child's hair as he does an adult's. Half the time our barber turns out the kids looking like nincompoops. If he sang like Perry Como I wouldnt mind, but he whistles off-key.

BORN TO LOSE

Dear Abby: Tell that barber that the reason mothers take their children to the barber on Saturday is because the fathers are busy working to earn the fantastic price of a haircut.

WORKING FATHER

Dear Abby: I am a barber with 30 years' experience, and that barber who wrote to you should be kicked out of the union, if he belongs to one. A good barber welcomes children any time, and gives them bubble gum and lollipops for good behavior. And we WANT mothers to tell us how to cut their hair. That's the only way we are sure they are satisfied and will come back.

ANDY THE BARBER

Dear Abby: I am a barber's wife and I agree with the barber who prefers to have children come in on week-days and leave Saturday for the working men. My husband earns one-third of his salary on Saturday and doesn't want to be slowed up by fidgety kids who cry and squirm. And mothers coaching from the sidelines make him nervous. Saturdays should be reserved for ADULTS ONLY.

BARBER'S WIFE

Dear Abby: My husband was getting his hair cut the afternoon Pittsburgh won the Series. His hair hasn't grown out yet.

PITTSBURGH WIFE

Dear Wife: He's lucky he wasn't getting a shave.

Dear Abby: About barbers: I have eight boys. At today's prices, it would cost me $14.00 a week for haircuts, so I bought a barber kit and learned how to cut hair myself. My husband laughed at me at first, then he came home one day looking like his hair had been cut with a knife and fork. He asked me to try to patch it up a little. I did such a good job he begs me to give him a haircut every week.

Dr. Sills Named To Conference

DR. FRANK D. SILLS, director of Health and Physical Education at East Stroudsburg State College has been named by Gov. Lawrence as an official delegate to the White House Conference on Aging. The session will be held Jan. 9-12 in Washington, D.C.

Dr. Sills will be among 150 delegates from Pennsylvania. In making the appointments, Gov. Lawrence said: "This conference is long overdue."

"The problems of the aging are among the most compelling that we face in our modern society. Yet our society has callously turned a deaf ear to these problems until recently," he said.

"The work done by these committee members, the recommendations they make and the conclusions they draw will have a significant effect on American planning for the aging, the governor pointed out.

Preparations for Pennsylvania's participation in the national conference have been going on since February 1960 under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Grigg Horting, secretary of public welfare.

About 2,800 official delegates will attend the national conference. They will be representing all the states and territories and the 300 private national organizations participating in the conference, which was called several years ago by President Eisenhower.

Urges No Change In Filibuster Rule

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana called on Democratic liberals Sunday to sidetrack attacks on the Senate filibuster rule. He said such attacks might stymie the Kennedy legislative program.

Mansfield, expected to become Senate Democratic leader, said efforts to make it easier to cut off extended talk against civil rights measures could disrupt party unity needed to put over the new president's program.

"We ought to face up to the realities of the situation and recognize that the Democratic President will have a program he will want to put through," Mansfield said.

"We will need as united a party as it is possible to get to do this. If we get into difficulties over the filibuster rule there could well be no changes in it, plus the possibility that at least a part of the new president's program will be stymied."

Liberal Democrats, led by Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois, tentatively have scheduled a Dec. 27 meeting to decide what course to pursue to get the rule changed at the opening of the 87th Congress.

They contend the present requirement of approval by two-thirds of all senators voting to cut off lengthy debate makes it impossible to pass any except what they regard as watered-down civil rights measures.

Southern Democrats who strenuously oppose party platform pledges for the passage of teeth-bearing proposals in this field can be expected to filibuster any rules change proposal. Stirred by such a fight, they also might retaliate by opposing some other Kennedy measures.

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., who has taken the lead in past efforts to change the rule, predicted in a separate interview that the liberals will decide to try again in January.

But they won't have his support, Anderson added. He said he is more interested in clearing the way for passage of a Kennedy program.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, defeated by John F. Kennedy in the presidential contest, will be presiding officer of the Senate until Jan. 20.

Nixon could be expected to uphold the contention of the Democratic liberals that the Senate rules are open to change by a majority vote at the beginning of each Congress.

Weidner Offers Blueprint For Reapportioning State

HARRISBURG (AP)—Rep. Leroy A. Weidner, R—Berks, has given Republican legislative leaders a blueprint of how to reapportion House seats in line with the 1960 census.

Thus Weidner, who headed the House Reapportionment Committee in the 1953 redistricting, becomes the first lawmaker to outline publicly how he feels the legislature should proceed next year with this ticklish problem.

Under Weidner's plan, disclosed Sunday, House seats would be pared from 210 to 209. He said his proposals are based on the 1960 census with one representative allocated for every 56,196 persons in a county.

Montgomery County, where a whopping population jump of 46 per cent occurred during the last decade, would be the biggest beneficiary of Weidner's reshuffling proposal. Its seats would be raised from six to nine.

Two members each would be added to the Bucks and Delaware County delegations. Bucks now has three seats; Delaware has seven.

One seat each would be added in Beaver and Chester counties, which now have three members, and in Westmoreland County which now has five representatives.

Philadelphia, the state's largest city, would lose four House members, going from 39 to 35, under Weidner's plan. The city's population dropped by 100,000 during the last 10 years.

Other counties losing one seat each would be Armstrong (two to one); Blair (three to two); Crawford (two to one); Fayette (four to three); Lackawanna (five to four) and Somerset (two to one).

Allegheny County's membership would stay the same at 28 under Weidner's plan. The county's population jumped by about 6.9 per cent since 1950.

Lancaster County—With a population increase would go from four to five members. Franklin County, which also had a population, jump, would increase its representation from one to two members under Weidner's plan.

There would be drops, however, in Schuylkill (four to three); Clearfield (two to one), and Luzerne (seven to six) counties because of population changes in the coal regions in the last decade, Weidner added.

Both parties are expected to introduce reapportionment bills in the next session which meets Jan. 3.

Democrats will control the House, 110-100. The Senate will be divided 25-25 between the parties with Democrats in organizational control because a member of their party, Lt. Gov. John Morgan Davis of Philadelphia, can cast a tie-breaking vote except on final passage of legislation.

The Constitution stipulates that reapportionment must be carried out after each federal census but provides no penalty for failure to do so. The House was reapportioned last in 1953; the Senate [illegible] 1961.

3 Defendants Surrender

MADRID (AP) — Three defendants of the Paris "barricades trial" have entered Spain and surrendered to police, a government spokesman announced. He said they had requested political asylum.

The defendants were being tried for their street barricade insurrection against President Charles de Gaulle in Algiers last January.

The three are Jean-Marie Demarquet, 37, a former deputy; Jean-Jacques Susini, 27, a medical student, and reserve Capt. Marcel Ronda, 38, secretary-general of the federation of Algerian territorial units.

The three, with Deputy Pierre Lagaillarde and Fernand Ferral, failed to show up for Monday's session of the barricades trial. Ferral gave himself up Wednesday to French police.

World Census 3 Billion In '61

WASHINGTON (AP) — The world's population will round out three billion before the end of 1961 a population research group said Sunday.

The Population Reference Bureau, which describes itself as a nonprofit educational organization, said the world's population is now more than 2.9 billion and growing at a rate of 1.7 per cent a year.

U.N. Ethiopians Gain Control

ELISABEATHVILLE, Katanga (AP)—U.N. Ethiopian troops established control Sunday in the northern Katanga town of Kongolo which was attacked by rebel Baluba tribesmen Saturday, a U.N. spokesman reported.

He said representatives of the 1,500 Africans living in Kongolo requested U.N. protection and about 150 Ethiopians had moved into the town.

Reports said eight gendarmes were killed and 10 injured in the fighting, but official figures issued by the Katanga government in Elisabethville Sunday said only two deaths had been verified.

Eagles' Second Loss

Late Eagle Rally Fails As Steelers Win 27-21

PITTSBURGH (AP) — John Henry Johnson scored two touchdowns and passed for another Sunday in leading the Pittsburgh Steelers to a 27-21 triumph over the Philadelphia Eagles, champions of the National Football League Eastern Conference.

It was the first loss for the Eagles since their season opener. They clinched the Eastern Division title last Sunday by whipping St. Louis 20-6 for their ninth straight victory.

Long Run

Johnson ran 87 yards for one touchdown and took a seven-yard pass from Bobby Layne for another. He also passed 18 yards to Buddy Dial for a touchdown. Johnson's gallop was the longest from scrimmage in the NFL this season.

The Eagles packed all of their scoring into the final quarter. Tom Brown tallied to touchdowns and had a hand in the third.

Johnson's gallop was the longest from scrimmage in the NFL this season.

Layne scored the Steelers' first touchdown in the intitial period on a six-yard run after a fumble recovery on the Philadelphia 49.

The Steelers marched 46 yards in six plays for their second touchdown in the period with Layne hitting Johnson for the score.

In the second quarter Johnson broke off tackle and with a key block by Jimmy Orr, scotted 87 yards for the touchdown.

Dial Scores

A 31-yard return on a pass interception by Dick Moegle set up Pittsburgh's fourth touchdown late in the second quarter, Johnson then hit Dial in the end zone.

Brown took a 53-yard pass from Sonny Jurgensen for one score and sprinted six yards for his second. A 50-yard pass from Jurgenson to Brown to the Steelers' 19 paved the way for the final Eagle touchdown. On the next play Jurgenson passed to Tommy McDonald in the end zone.

It was a cold day with the temperature in the 20s. Snow fell steadily as a crowd of 22,101 watched the Steelers grab their fifth decision in the season's final game at Forbes Field.

Pro Football Roundup

Rams Hand Colts Near Knockout

By THE ASSCIATED PRESS

The Baltimore Colts were handed a 10-3 defeat Sunday by the Los Angeles Rams, a near-knockout blow to their third straight National Football League title hopes. At the same time the Houston Oilers clinched the American Football League's Eastern Division crown and will meet the Los Angeles Chargers in the championship playoff.

Green Bay's 13-0 victory Saturday over the San Francisco 49ers left the Packers in sole possession of first place in the NFL Western Division. A Packer victory next Saturday at Los Angeles would give Green Bay the championship, and a crack at the Philadelphia Eagles—Eastern Conference winner—in the playoff at Philadelphia Dec. 26.

Houston Gets Title

Houston defeated the Buffalo Bills 31-23 to wrap up the AFL's Eastern Division crown. The Oilers will play Los Angeles, 41-33 winner over Denver Saturday, in the Western race, for the championship in Houston on New Year's Day.

The Detroit Lions downed the Dallas Cowboys 23-14 and earned a second place tie with Baltimore and San Francisco in the NFL Western Conference. All three have 6-5 records, with Green Bay at 7-4.

Baltimore is at San Francisco, and Chicago plays at Detroit next Sunday, but it would require a Green Bay loss Saturday and victory by both or either the Colts or Lions to produce a Western Conference tie.

Giants Win

In other NFL games Philadelphia was knocked off by Pittsburgh, 27-21, the New York Giants beat the Washington Redskins 17-3, and the Cleveland Browns blasted the Chicago Bears 42-0.

The Dallas Texas thumped the Boston Patriots 34-0, and the New York Titans eged the Oakland Raiders in the AFL, 31-28.

Quarterback Bill Wade went down the sidelines 66 yards for the touchdown that beat Baltimore in the third period. Steven Myhra had kicked a 9-yard field goal for Baltimore in the first period. The Rams then held off the Colts, Unitas' record of 47 consecutive games in which he had passed for at least one touchdown. Danny Villanueva's 32-yard field goal in the fourth period gave Los Angeles a little more margin.

Earl Morrall, who beat Baltimore with a long pass a week ago, started for Detroit for the first time this year and, led the Lions to victory over Dallas. He passed for one touchdown to Gail Cogdill, while fullback Nick Pietrosante ran 43 and 40 yards for the other pair.

George Blanda tossed three touchdown passes as Houston defeated Buffalo, and kicked an AFL record 53-yard field goal to spark his club. Blanda passed 39 yards to Bill Groman, 6 yards to Charlie Hennigan, and 21 yards to Dave Smith for TD's.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Tailback Lee Farmer, who scored both Lenoir Rhyne touchdowns in a 15-14 triumph over Humboldt State, Sunday was named the most valuable player and outstanding back of the Holiday Bowl football game.

Announcement of his selection came shortly before the Bears headed back to their campus at Hickory, N. C., in possession of the 1960 National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics title.

Lenoir Rhyne had a record of 11 victories and one tie for the season. Saturday night's victory also gave the Bears the distinction of breaking a 20-game Humboldt winning streak.

Stenin Wins Skate Races

OSLO (AP) — Boris Stenin, Russia's 1960 world speed skating champion, Sunday won both the 500 and 3,000-meter races in Norway's first international meet of the season.

Stenin won the 500 meters in 43.4 seconds and the 3,000 in 4 minutes, 59.9 seconds — both good times in view of a strong, cold wind.

Bednarik To Speak To TD Tonight

CHUCK Bednarik, 12-year veteran of the Philadelphia Eagles, will address the Pocono Touchdown Club's "Night of Football" tonight at the Elks Club at 8.

Bednarik is the only member of the Eagles' Eastern Conference championship team that was with the club when it won the same title in 1949.

The University of Pennsylvania graduate, who has retired twice, only to sign to play again, played on both offense and defense in several of the Eagles' key games this year. But for the past two games, Bednarik has played only offensive center.

Tonight's program will also include several hours of football films. This year's Inter-Borough game will be shown in color.

All of the area high school football coaches and the East Stroudsburg State College grid coaching staff will be present.

Pressure On U.S. In Davis Cup

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

PERTH, Australia (AP)—Pressure was heavy on the U.S. Davis Cup tennis team Monday as Earl (Butch) Buchholz and Barry MacKay went out to try to clinch the interzone finals against the revived Italians.

With the Americans leading 2-1 in the best-of-five series, the final singles matches sent the 20-year-old Buchholz of St. Louis against the flashy Nicola Pietrangeli, Wimbledon semifinalist, and the ball whacking MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, against the giant Orlando Sirola.

Pietrangeli and Sirola, who lost the opening singles in heart-breaking defeats, came storming back Sunday to win the doubles. They outlasted Buchholz and Charles (Chuck) McKinley in a stormy battle which ended 3-6 10-8 6-4 6-4.

After McKinley dumped the final point into the net, he wheeled sharply and sent his racket sailing through the air. It soared fully 40 yards and landed in the midst of scrambling spectators in the open stands.

No one was hurt but the incident exploded an ugly mood of the highly pro Italian gallery and there were boos and catcalls mixed with menacing growls.

Both camps were optimistic going into the singles.

"I am not disappointed—I think we still will win the final two singles," said David Freed, U.S. captain. "We are leading 2-1 and the pressure is all on the Italians."

Vanni Canapele, the suave captain of the Italians, predicted the series will go down to the final match between MacKay and Sirola said: "Italy now has won a match in the interzone finals and that is so incredible in itself anything can happen."

Sirola beat MacKay this year in the French championships at Paris—on clay, as opposed to the grass courts of the Davis Cup.

Paret Likes Offense For His Defense

NEW YORK (AP)—As far as welterweight champion Benny (Kid) Paret of Cuba is concerned, the best defense is a bristling offense.

The 23-year-old muscle man from Cubaa's sugar cane belt showed why at Madison Square Garden and over a television hookup Saturday night when he swarmed all over hard-hitting Federico Thompson of Argentina. The Kid's buzzsaw attack earned him the unanimous, 15-round decision in the first defense of his 147-pound division crown.

Next in line for the new affluent Paret may be a March title defense against the winner of next Saturday's Luis Rodriguez-Emile Griffith TV fight at the Garden. Rodriguez, another Cuban, is undeated and the No. 1 contender. Griffith, a New Yorker via the Virgin Islands, is the No. 4 contender.

Matchmaker Teddy Brenner suggested the title defense but Paret's manager, Manuel Alfaro, said he's in no hurry to negotiate.

Reds End Tour

TOKYO (AP) —The Moscow Lokomotiv soccer team wound up its goodwill tour of Japan Sunday by whipping the Japanese all stars 10-3 before 20,000 fans at National Stadium. The Soviet team won all of its four games here.

Goalby's 272 Wins Coral Gables Open

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Bob Goalby, a husky youngster from Crystal River, Fla., won the $20,000 Coral Gables Open Golf Tournament by one stroke Sunday despite a penalty he called on himself when his caddy stepped on his ball.

The handsome 25-year-old finished the 72 holes with a 23 under par 272, overcoming on the final nine holes a four stroke lead held by Ted Kroll of Fort Lauderdale.

Goalby was one stroke ahead of Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla. Kroll faded to a three-over-par 39 on the final nine—while Goalby was carding a 34 — and came in with a 274.

The caddy stepped accidentally on Goalby's ball on the final hole. Without hesitating, the Crystal River player called the one stroke penalty.

ESSC Faces Tough Week After Beating Trenton 84-71

EAST STROUDSBURG State College closed its New Jersey basketball season Saturday with a 3-0 mark, after winning 84-71 at Trenton Teachers Saturday.

It was the fourth win in as many games for the Warriors, who now have a six-game win streak working, including two holdover games from last season.

The Warriors close out their pre-Christmas activity this week with games at Scranton Wednesday and their conference opener at Kutztown Saturday.

Last year the Warriors lost to Scranton 66-64 and dropped two games to Kutztown, 101-99 and 71-66. Kutztown and Mansfield are the teams picked to battle for the Eastern crown of the Pennsylvania State College Conference.

Near Win Mark

If the Warriors can win both games this week, they will be within one game of their total win mark last season. The Warriors had a 7-13 record last year, with three conference wins.

The Warriors started slowly against Trenton and trailed at halftime 39-37. But a 47-point second half got the Warriors home with number four.

It was the fourth time that East Stroudsburg has gone over the 80 point mark this season. Last year the Warriors passed the 80 point barrier only five times.

Russ Hopewell, who had been averaging 25 points a game this year saw his average dip to 22.7, when he was limited to 16 points by Trenton.

Polanchak Gets

But Hopewell's scoring lag was picked up by sophomore John Polanchak and senior Tony Salerno.

Polanchak, from Plymouth, had 22 and Salerno of Old Forge added 19.

Warrior coach Dick Luce used his entire 12-man squad in the game and only three failed to score.

Scott Weaver and Larry Walsh had eight points each, Ed Becker and Rick Carroll split eight points, Ken Hendricks has a lone field goal and Joe Habakus hit on one free throw to complete the Warrior scoring.

The Warriors took the lead away from Trenton soon after the second half opened, when they scored five straight points. Trenton stayed close to East Stroudsburg until midway through the final half. With 9:21 left it was 57-52 East Stroudsburg. But after that the Warriors put the game out of reach.

The Warrior junior varsity won its third game against one loss, as it trounced the Trenton JVs 98-68.

Sonny Giumento had 22 points and Paul Grube 21 for the winners.

Bucks Blast Army 103-54

Ohio State, Detroit, ACC Teams Lead Basketball Race

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

National champion Ohio State has regained the touch, Detroit may at last be on the way and the race for the Atlantic Coast Conference title is going to be a beaut. That's the way things stack up Sunday as major college basketball heads into the holiday tournament tangle.

Ohio State, which had little trouble against Ohio University and St. Louis but wasn't really impressive, showed its old zip and sting Saturday night while walloping Army 103-54. The Cadets were not expected to have much of a chance, but they had no chance at all. Not with Buck All-America Jerry Lucas scoring 29 points in a fast-break attack, and John Havlicek holding Army ace Lee Sager scoreless for 12 minutes.

The Bucs, now 3-0, hit 23 of 26 from the foul line, started sending in subs after rolling up a 30-11 lead in 12 minutes and then crushed the Cadets 59-19 in the second half.

Hoosiers Upset

Detroit, long a comer in the big time, upset Big Ten hopeful Indiana 81-79 in double overtime on a 20-foot corner set shot by Tom Villemure in the last second. Charlie North, whose tip-in had tied it 79-all, and Dave Debusschere each scored 23 points for the Titans, who twice trailed the Hoosiers in the second extra period. It was victory No. 3 for Detroit, which defeated Utah State in the final five seconds last Monday.

In the ACC, Maryland (4-0), North Carolina State (4-0), North Carolina (2-0) and Duke (3-0) are on the prowl. Maryland won 64-53 at Minnesota, with 6-7 Bob McDonald controlling the boards and Bill Stasiulatis scoring 20 points. NC State cracked Citadel 88-71, and Duke added to West Virginia's troubles with a 66-64 victory over the Mountaineers. A free throw by John Frye and soph Art Heyman's score gave the Blue Devils the big push after West Virginia had tied it 57-all with 2:40 left. The teams had to be recalled after leaving the floor to complete the final 2 seconds of play — after a West Virginia time out went unnoticed by the timer.

Carolina Idle

North Carolina was idle, but plays Kentucky Monday night.

The tournaments open Monday night with the Bluegrass Festival at Louisville. It pairs Western Kentucky (4-0) against Utah State (2-2) and Georgia Tech (3-0) against Louisville (5-0). Louisville was the only entry at work Saturday, defeating Xavier of Ohio 76-64.

This weekend, it's the Birmingham Classic, Virginia Tech (2-0), vs. Auburn (3-0) and Baylor (0-3) vs. Alabama (0-3); and the Steel Bowl at Pittsburgh, Pitt (1-3) vs. Colgate (4-0) and Tennessee (4-0) vs. Duqeuesne (4-0), among the major tournaments.

McKinley Faces Official Rebuke

PERTH, Australia (AP) — The Lawn Tennis Association of Australia may make an official complaint to the United States body over Chuck McKinley's racket throwing episode in the Davis Cup interzone finals.

Norman Strange, president of the LTAA, criticized the action as "deplorable behavior" and "poor sportsmanship" and indicated he will bring the matter up at the next meeting of his ruling body.

Nothing can be done beyond an official rebuke.

After missing a volley on the final point, which gave the doubles victory to Italy's Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola, McKinley hurled his racket into the east stands which were crowded with spectators.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

MONDAY, DEC. 12, 1960

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Mixed vibrations but nearly all favorable. Should be inspiring day, filled with enthusiasm for tasks ahead. Complete matters started, also start new obligations.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Not spectacular for all personal affairs but day holds promise for honest, sincere efforts in industry, business generally. Will be well worth time to aim high.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Superior Mercury day. Keen mental matters, creative, ingenious ideas; inventions, aiding promotion, science among top favored. New, healthy projects, advanced issues honored.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer—Fine aspects now, and most of month assumes bright proportions for achievement, new situations, friendships. Confer, listen to knowledgeable persons, be decisive, sure facts are right.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Vigorous, favorable Sun vibrations add to many other good inclinations. Grand day to start fresh week. Be sensibly enthused but listen to wise advice, suggestions that can help.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) —As with Gemini now, bright aspects. Don't strain but do try things you've wanted to and have faith you will accomplish to great extent. Always seek wise help.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Many roads lead to achievement and contentment. No need to adhere to anything unsavory. You can acquire new distinction, and privileges by being your true self.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Remember all wise admonitions before beginning day, which could be fast moving once started. Thus care at the post is important. Don't let down protective guards.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Here again a period for some contemplation, but also determined action once the decisions are thoughtfully made. Both quiet reviewing and firm action are vital. Be calm.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — You can do much more with this day than may at first believe, but faith in self and in your undertaking must exist. Look up substantiating facts; discuss with knowing heads.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Do not stay with any matter or project once your keen insight and knowledge tell you it has lost power and there could be a better way. Your progressive nature needed.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) —You may have to sit out some less pleasant talk and affairs but if it would be for best of all concerned, do so; you will have no regrets. But do NOT change sound principles to PLEASE.

YOU BORN TODAY have many attributes, deep-down qualities that make for both success and popularity, and if you follow instincts and do not become involved with less scrupulous people, you will be the guiding light so many see. This sign has led in widely diversified fields, at all ages. Overpressure can be a fault, as can too-quick action which can hurt others' feelings. So since you DO have innate tact also, use it to forestall abruptness. Birthdate of: many architects, artists, diplomats, judges, new-industry developers.

Discoveries In Space Announced

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Important new telescopic discoveries in the far, far reaches of space were reported Sunday by the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

They deal with things trillions of miles beyond the highest heights yet achieved by man's most sophisticated satellites.

The findings, hailed by Carnegie scientists as offering reason for re-examination of current theories as to the origin, age and structure of the universe — include the revelation of:

New Galaxies

1. A whole cluster of new and possibly colliding galaxies — giant aggregates of stars, each at least as extensive as our own Milky Way galaxy. They apparently are receding from the earth at the unprecedented speed of about 90,000 miles a second, or almost half the speed of light. The most distant astronomical objects yet discovered, the galxaies are estimated to be at least several billion light years away (a light-year is six million, million miles) —so far that the light recorded by Carnegie and associated scientists left the cluster several billion years ago.

2. New evidence suggesting that a previously known distant galaxy —known as NGC 188—may be 25 billion years old, the oldest age thus found for any group of stars. Some current views on the age of stars—and therefore for the universe as a whole—place the limit at only 7½ billion years.

Magnetic Field

3. "The strongest magnetic field so far found in nature." Recorded during a violent flare by a distant star called HD 215441, it was rated to have an intensity of 34,400 gauss, the gauss being a unit of magnetic strength. By comparison, the largest sun pots have magnetic fields rated at about 4,000 gauss.

4. New and confirming evidence that some of the stars in the universe are deviant oddballs, with chemical compositions showing large variations from those normally observed in the sun and other stars in its neighborhood.

The Carnegie report said this deviant-composition find raises questions basic to the structure and dynamics of the universe, and presents a new puzzler as to how the stars generate and utilize thermonuclear energy.

The discoveries were made with the giant 200-inch telescope at Mt. Palomar, California, by scientists of the Mt. Wilson and Palomar observatories. These are operated jointly by Carnegie and the California Institute of Technology.

Commenting on the discovery of the far-out, fast-stepping galaxies, Carnegie's president, Dr. Caryl P. Haskins, said it offered "a spectacular new view of the 'edge' of our known universe."

He said it conceivably might help resolve long-standing scientific arguments as to whether the universe originated in the cosmic explosive bang or by other means.
